

Stanford

"In a game like that, when you're up 2-1, you know you have nothing to lose," Wendell said. "The momentum just kept shifting."

The third game added to Stanford's momentum. The Cardinal kept close, never trailing by more than three points, and held the lead on two occasions before rallying again.

Nebraska led 13-11 on a double block by Lisa Reitsma and Weston before the Cardinal scored the final four points of the game to win 15-13.

Service errors killed the Huskers throughout the night. Nebraska committed 17 service errors during the match.

Pettit said the serving errors were a big key in Stanford's win.

"I'm concerned our experienced people made service errors in critical situations," Pettit said. "Certainly that was major at the end."

Nebraska did have chances to overcome its poor serving night.

The Huskers took a 10-3 lead in the first game and after Stanford cut that lead to 12-8, the Huskers went on to win 15-8.

In the second game, Nebraska rallied after the Cardinal took a 9-2 lead. The Huskers eventually pulled to within 13-11, but after a sideout, Jen McFadden hit the ball long, and Stanford's Lisa Sharpley served an ace to win the game.

Although the teams combined for 71 errors, Stanford coach Don Shaw said both teams showed that they were capable of greater success later in the season.

"One thing this match tells us is that Nebraska is a serious contender for the national title," Shaw said. "We're a serious contender, too."

In Friday night's semifinal match, Nebraska defeated Penn State, the only team to beat the Huskers last season.

The Huskers dominated the Nittany Lions, 15-4, 15-3, 15-6, becoming the first team to sweep Penn State since Stanford did it at the Midwest Regional semifinal in December 1992.

In the match, Weston set a Nebraska single-match record with a hitting percentage of .824. Weston knocked down 14 kills on 17 total attacks: The previous best was set by Lori Endicott who hit .800 against Miami of Ohio in 1986.

Reitsma hit .476 with 11 kills on 21 attempts. Penn State was led by Terri Zemaitis, who had 12 kills.

As a team Nebraska hit .465, while the Nittany Lions struggled, hitting just .157.

Penn State coach Russ Rose said this Nebraska team was better after one match than the one Penn State faced after 31 matches a year ago.

"This is the best chance they've had to win the national championship," Rose said.

NU swimmer garners gold at world meet

From Staff Reports

Nebraska senior Penny Heyns has a good reason for missing the first week of classes.

Heyns

Heyns, a member of the Nebraska women's swimming and diving team and a 1995 All-American, won the gold medal in the 200-meter breaststroke at the World University Games Friday in Fukoka, Japan.

Heyns won the event with a time of 2:28.44. She is currently ranked second in the world in the 200-meter breaststroke with a time of 2:27.68.

She recorded her personal best time earlier this month at the Pan-Pacific Games in Atlanta, Ga.

Heyns, a native of Amanzimtoti, South Africa, also is ranked first in the 100-meter breaststroke with a time of 1:08.08, which she also recorded at the Pan-Pacific Games.

Nebraska junior Julia Russell, also a native of South Africa, finished fourth in the 200-meter breaststroke at the University Games with a career-best time of 2:32.00.
