

Free Computer Class!

A free microcomputer class is being offered to UNL students. The class will feature an introduction to Microsoft Word for the Macintosh. No reservations are required. Seats are available on a first come, first served basis.

Introduction to Microsoft Word for Macintosh

Thursday, September 28 3:00 - 4:30 p.m. Bancroft 239

Dress for Success

Dressing for success is important whether you're dressing for an important interview or for an important social date, you need to look your best. Fashion II accepts only high quality clothes on a consignment basis.

BRING IN YOUR STUDENT I.D. FOR 10% OFF!

Hours: Mon, Wed, Fri 10-5:30
Tues & Thurs 10-8 Sat 10-4

FASHION II

Consignment Boutique 33rd & Pioneers 483-1324

Linebacker says defense hasn't reached potential

By Mike Kluck
Staff Reporter

Almost there, but not quite. That was WILL linebacker Terrell Farley's reaction to his play against Pacific in Nebraska's 49-7 win Saturday.

Farley said he played better against the Tigers than he had in the other three Cornhusker wins, but he said he still had improvements to make.

"I've got to get more aggressive," Farley said after his four-tackle performance, which included a sack of Tiger quarterback Nick Sellers.

For the year Farley leads the Huskers in interceptions with two and is tied for fourth on the team with 17 tackles, including three sacks. Farley was disappointed he didn't get his third interception against Pacific.

The 6-foot, 200-pound junior, a native of Columbus, Ga., who played for two seasons at Independence (Kan.) Community College, said he had a chance at an interception in the second quarter, but the ball went through his hands.

Farley returned interceptions for touchdowns in Nebraska's season opener against Oklahoma State and in the Huskers' 77-28 win over Arizona State on Sept. 16.

"If I would have caught one today, everyone would have thought it was a fluke," Farley said. "They would have said, 'You're the luckiest person in the world.'"

Even though Farley has returned both of his interceptions for touchdowns, he said he still needed to work on his pass defense.

"I pause when I see the pass," Farley said. "I just need to go ahead and hit them (receivers)."

Farley, who was Nebraska's only junior college recruit this season, was an All-American at Independence last season, earning the Jayhawk League linebacker-of-the-year award.

In his two years at Independence, Farley blocked 22 kicks.

Farley, who is listed second on the depth chart behind Ryan Terwilliger, said both he and the Huskers needed to play more aggressively this season.

"We want to be the most physical team in college football, defensive-wise," Farley said. "We don't want anybody to get any yards."

"We really haven't cranked it up," Farley said. "Later on in the season, we will be one of the top defenses in the nation, guaranteed. We will be No. 1."

Huskers expecting challenge

By Derek Samson
Senior Reporter

With Nebraska's average score this season being a 60-17 rout, starters have found it difficult to imagine playing a full game.

But that could all change Saturday against Washington State, according to most of the Cornhusker players.

"I watched some film and they look pretty good," defensive tackle Christian Peter said. "I think we'll have our hands full next week."

For most of this season, the top unit players' hands have been on their hips, as they watched from the sidelines.

The second-ranked Huskers, 4-0, have outscored opponents 240-66, including 154-35 in the first half.

"I don't know how many snaps I've had this season, but it isn't a lot," center Aaron Graham said. "We take pride in our conditioning. We take pride in the fact that we know when we have to go a full four quarters; we'll be in good enough shape to handle it."

Graham, one of five Husker captains, agreed that Nebraska's first big test could come from 2-1 Washington State, which defeated UCLA 24-15 last week.

"It's going to be a battle," he said. "They're at the top as far as rushing defense. They're a hard-nosed group, and they'll probably give us a run."

Jason Peter, also a defensive tackle, said there had been plenty of challenges this season, despite the blow-outs.

"We've had some good tests as far as offensive lines," he said. "Michigan State had a tough offensive line, and Arizona State was pretty physical up front also. We've gone up against some tough guys."

Quarterback Tommie Frazier said he expected a different type of game against Washington State.

"That's what this team has wanted all along," Frazier said. "We've wanted someone to come in here and really give us a challenge. By a team doing that, you're going to see what Nebraska is capable of."

Christian Peter said the Huskers had proven that they still have ability to put up big numbers. Now, he said he wanted to show that the Huskers' conditioning hasn't dropped off either.

"It's great blowing these teams out," he said. "I'm sure down the line we're going to run into a team that will hang in there for four quarters with us. We're in great shape, so we're prepared to go four quarters with anyone."

For Graham, a close game means a wide-open offense, something he said the Huskers didn't show against Pacific.

14TH ANNUAL CHRISTMAS
CWT
COLORADO
WINE BREAKS
JANUARY 2-15, 1996 • 4, 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
STEAMBOAT
BRECKENRIDGE $158
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
Sunchase AFFORDABLE
TOLL FREE INFORMATION AND RESERVATIONS
1-800-SUNCHASE
NOBODY DOES SKI BREAKS BETTER!

SNOOZE
You sleep through morning classes. And now you're gonna blow off the afternoon. The sad thing is, your parents have no clue. They think you're working hard. They're convinced you're basing your butt. They're so damn proud. If only they could see you now. Lying there like a lump. Suddenly guilt sets in. You feel so low. Quickly, you reach for the phone and surprise the folks with a call. Ahhh, now you can sleep in peace.

1-800-COLLECT

Save Up To 44%.

For long distance calls. Savings based on a 3 minute AT&T operator-dialed interstate call.