Win in Austin helps Huskers prime for shot at national title

By Antone Oseka
Staff Reporter

The Nebraska volleyball team hopes its win over No. 7 Texas Saturday is the start of something great.

The top-ranked Cornhuskers kept their winning streaks of 60 straight games and 20 straight matches intact with a 15-4, 15-13, 15-4 win over the Longhorns at Austin, Texas.

Now the Huskers want to build on their momentum because they play two ranked teams in the next week.

"I believe this was a crucial win for what's ahead with Notre Dame, Florida and the NCAAs," Nebraska assistant coach Cathy Noth said. "It was good for our hopes of a national championship."

In front of a crowd of 2,432 fans in Austin, only the second game proved to be much of a challenge for Nebraska.

Trailing 12-5 in the second game, the Huskers started to play defense, Noth said. The defensive play of juniors Kate Crnich and Maria Hedbeck spearheaded the Huskers' rally. Crnich finished the match with a team-high 12 digs, and Hedbeck finished with 10 digs on the night.

"It was a great game for us; it was exciting," Noth said.

The key for the Huskers was serving, Noth said. Senior Billie Winsett claimed a team-high three of the nine service aces that Nebraska recorded for the match.

Sophomore Lisa Reitsma led the Huskers with 19 kills, while senior Allison Weston added 16 more kills for the Huskers. Weston edged out Reitsma in hitting percentage, though, hitting .583 in the match, with only two errors on 24 attempts. Reitsma hit .485, with only three errors in 33 attempts.

Noth said the Huskers were well prepared for the match against Texas, but they would need even more preparation for the upcoming week.

The Huskers face No. 12 Notre Dame at the NU Coliseum in a 7:30 match Tuesday night. Then they go on the road to play Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., on Friday, and then back to Lincoln to face off against No. 2 Florida on Sunday.

Noth said Notre Dame was the team's first concern.

"Notre Dame is a good team, and they are well-coached and disciplined," she said. "We just need to keep on going from Texas."

Husker swimmers faced rough waters in Texas

From Staff Reports

Nebraska junior Julia Russell was the lone event winner for the Cornhusker women's swimming and diving team as the Cornhuskers finished in third place in the SMU Classic in Dallas on Saturday.

Southern Methodist won the six-team event with 331 points, and Michigan finished second with 310. The Cornhuskers compiled 295 points.

The No. 24 Husker men also had a difficult time this weekend as they were able to win only five events in two losses to Texas A&M on Friday and SMU on Saturday. The Aggies won 11 of 16 events, while SMU won 8 of 13 events.

Russell won the 200-meter breaststroke with a time of 2:14.95 and finished in second place in the 200-meter individual medley. SMU's Martina Moravcova won the individual medley with a meet record time of 2:01.33.

Senior Melanie Dodd and sophomore Mikaela Lauren each finished in second place in the 100-meter freestyle and 200-meter butterfly, respectively. Husker freshman T.D. Rowe and senior Jane Glazebrook finished third in the three-meter diving and 200-meter backstroke, respectively.

Russell and Dodd, along with sophomore Erin Carew and junior Brianna Wilkins, finished third in the 400-meter freestyle relay.

On the men's side against the unranked Aggies, Nebraska All-American Juan Benavides won both the 50 and 100 freestyles, while the Huskers' other All-American candidate, junior Francis Boshoff, won the 200 freestyle. Freshman Keith Ebbert won the 100 butterfly, and junior Jamie Stevens won the 400 individual medley.

Benavides also won the 100 freestyle against SMU but finished second in the 50. Freshman diver Danny Bergman won the one-meter springboard, freshman Eric Rasser won the 1000 freestyle, and freshman Josh Mathias won the 200 freestyle.

The Husker 400 freestyle relay team of Boshoff, sophomore Mark Bennett, Benavides and Mathias also won its event.

Nebraska will compete against No. 2 Stanford and Cal-Berkeley next weekend in California.

Green, Minter nominated for Big 8 awards

From Staff Reports

With three touchdowns and an average of 14.6 yards a carry Saturday, true freshman I-back Ahman Green has been nominated by Nebraska for Big Eight offensive player of the week.

Rover Mike Minter was nominated by the Cornhuskers for defensive player of the week. Minter was second in tackles with six in the Huskers' 73-14 win over Iowa State.

Minter also had an interception before halftime that enabled Nebraska to score and take a 38-7 halftime lead.

On 12 carries Saturday, Green rushed for 176 yards, tying a career best. Green also broke the Husker freshman rushing record Saturday and is 130 yards short of Kansas's June Henley's 1,127-yard Big Eight freshman rushing record.

Green also caught two passes for 22 yards and one touchdown.
