Huskers too tough for Wildcats to withstand

From Staff Reports

A superb six minutes of basketball didn't turn against the Nebraska women's basketball team as it defeated Weber State 78-63 Saturday to win the CableVision Classic.

After defeating Gonzaga 87-40 on Friday, the Cornhuskers opened the championship game by outscoring the Wildcats 20-5 in the first six minutes of the game.

During that span, Husker sophomore Anna DeForge, the tournament's most valuable player, scored eight of her team-high 21 points while senior Pyra Aarden, who was named to the all-tournament team, added seven.

"We just came out unbelievably strong," Nebraska coach Angela Beck said. "If you saw the first seven minutes, it was just brilliant basketball. I think we shocked them with the level of our defense to start out."

In the next 10 minutes, however, the Wildcats outscored Nebraska 21-2. But then the Huskers reapplied their defensive pressure and limited the Wildcats to one field goal in the last four minutes of the half while regaining a 42-29 halftime lead.

"The first and last five minutes of each half, we look to be really aggressive," DeForge said. "We don't want to be outscored, outrebounded; we want to lead everything."

two big turnovers, things could have been different," Moore said.

The Oklahoma defense did have some success, though, holding the Nebraska offense to only two touchdowns.

The Sooners held Heisman Trophy candidate Tommie Frazier to 35 yards rushing and a 12-for-25, 128-yard passing performance.

"Our linebackers are about as quick and react about as well as any I've ever been around," Schnellenberger said.

(the 12-0 loss to the Cowboys Nov. 11) would really focus them. And I've never known an Oklahoma team not to play hard against Nebraska."

In the final game of the Big Eight Conference, which will expand to the Big 12 next season, Nebraska held Oklahoma to 94 yards rushing and 241 total yards.

It also capped the Huskers' third consecutive undefeated regular season.

"I think this year's team will be one that I'll always remember for many reasons," Osborne said. "I've been very satisfied by the way they have been able to focus and pull together. I think they've been a team in the true sense of the word."

thing would happen," McGee said. "That's been going on all year, and you can't do things like that."

Running back Jerald Moore was held to a season-low 39 yards on 14 carries. He said the Sooners' lack of offense frustrated him.

ball on them. Not as much, but we did move the ball."

Nebraska added a final score on its last possession of the game after a 13-play, 80-yard drive. Fullback Joel Makovicka rumbled in from 17 yards out to give Nebraska a 37-0 lead with 44 seconds remaining in the game.

"I think Oklahoma came up and played hard," Osborne said. "I was probably more apprehensive about this game than I've been any game for a long time. I felt that they had good athletes and the Oklahoma State game committee, headed by Cindy Lewis of Hofstra, did a good job of dividing the nation's top teams.

Boone, Lue score 30 in win

"The important thing to us," Pettit said, "probably more important than anything, is that if we win, we have the opportunity to host regionals. That's really big."

Nebraska had no problems this weekend at the Civic Auditorium in Omaha, defeating Oklahoma 15-7, 15-9, 15-5 on Friday and hammering Iowa State 15-4, 15-5, 15-1 in the Big Eight Tournament championship match on Saturday.

Senior middle blocker Allison Weston, who hit .442 in the tournament, was named the most valuable player for the second straight year, and was joined on the all-tournament team by Johnson, senior Billie Winsett and sophomore Lisa Reitsma.

Colorado, which lost to Iowa State on Friday night in Omaha, will travel to Northern Iowa Wednesday for a first-round NCAA Tournament match, and Iowa State will play host to Idaho on Wednesday night.
