Feeling Unhappy With the Way You Look?

In our appearance, pre-occupied society, individuals often struggle to accept their own physical appearance. How a person thinks, feels and behaves in relation to their own bodily size, shape and appearance is called "body image." In this workshop, we will improve how we think and feel about our bodies.

'The World Goes Round,' again

By Cherie Krueger
Staff Reporter

The world goes 'round, even in Lincoln. For those who missed it the first time, "The World Goes Round" is back.

The Downtown Dinner Theatre, 245 N. 13 St., premiered the musical in December 1995. The theatre is bringing the show back because of the positive reviews it received during its first showing.

"The World Goes Round" is a musical review featuring the work of John Kander and Fred Ebb, one of Broadway's most successful writing teams. The pair is better known for its work on "New York, New York," "Cabaret" and "Kiss of the Spider Woman."

One thing separates this play from most others — it has no plot.

"It's just a montage of their music woven together," producer Bob Rook said. "They'll play a ballad and follow it with something faster."

Rook said because the performance is only music mixed with nice lighting, people could just enjoy the show.

"They don't have to think. They can just sit back and enjoy themselves," he said.

Vincent Learned, the play's director, also conducts the five-piece orchestra. The play features a cast of five, including Heather Holland from St. Louis, Mo., and Cris Rook, who was last seen as Edwin Drod in "The Mystery of Edwin Drod."

"The World Goes Round" will show at the Downtown Dinner Theatre tonight through Sunday and Jan. 26-28. Dinner and show tickets are $20, and a limited number of show-only tickets are available for $10. Dinner begins at 6 p.m. with the show beginning at 7:30 p.m. for evening performances. Matinees, held on Sundays, begin at 1 p.m. with a 2:30 p.m. show time.

Video rentals prime for blustery weekend

By Gerry Beltz
Film Critic

Sorry we missed you last week on The Newvid Network, but we were experiencing technical difficulties. We now resume our regularly scheduled release of stuff to watch at home, with a special entry at the end.

"The Indian in the Cupboard" (PG) — Another decent children's movie that didn't do any business because everyone was at a Disney flick.

For his ninth birthday, Ormi receives (among other things) a cupboard and a small, plastic Indian figurine.

The magic begins when he opens up the cupboard, and there is now a 3-inch-tall Indian named Little Bear inside.

It's a cool flick for young and old with some neat-o special effects, but with the "politically-correct-or-die" society we live in, it is a surprise the movie wasn't titled "The Native American Who Temporarily Dwells Within a Very Small Closet."

"Lord of Illusions" (R) — Scott Bakula ("Quantum Leap") stars as a private detective who is swept into a world filled with the occult and demon worshippers.

"Lord of Illusions" also stars Famke Janssen ("Goldeneye"), and has great special effects and a decent performance from Bakula — but the story wasn't meant to be a two-hour movie.

"Nine Months" (PG-13) — Hugh Grant plays yet another bumbling nice guy (with BAD hair) surrounded by bizarre circumstances.

This time, it is childbirth causing the stress, and the pending daddy (guess who) must cope with toy stores, unwanted advice from the Parents from Hell (Tom Arnold and Joan Cusack) and — worst of all — losing his fun-fun lifestyle to a Volvo and late-night feedings.

This is an all-around great film (Robin Williams is exceptionally hilarious), but Hugh's nice-guy image is wearing thin.

"Priest" (R) — In this touching film, director Antonia Bird weaves a tale of a gay priest (Linus Roache) who must suffer through the struggle between his own sexuality and his professed faith.

Guaranteed to pickle the gullets of your local Christian Coalition, "Priest" is an exceptional film about real-life issues.

PICK-OF-THE-WEEK — It's too cold out, so stay inside, snuggle up with a loved one with a couple of cups of hot cocoa (don't forget the marshmallows!) and watch "Roxanne," a classic love story with a modern face lift.

Based on "Cyrano De Bergerac," Charlie (Steve Martin) has fallen in love with Roxanne (Daryl Hannah). But he has one problem — his nose is large enough to apply for steeplechase. And, because of this physical feature, he doubts Roxanne will second his emotion.

In comes Chris (Rick Rossovich, "Top Gun"), a musclebound, cute-looking guy who is so dense that light bends around him. And Charlie helps him get the girl.

The movie is hilarious and touching, and is one of Steve Martin's best performances to date. Check it out.
