

Shakespeare auditions to be held this weekend

By Kevin Bensley
Staff Reporter

Cindy Melby Phaneuf, artistic director of the Nebraska Shakespeare Festival, has announced auditions for the company of the 1996 edition of "Shakespeare on the Green."

Shakespeare's works, considered by many to be the world's greatest, will be brought to life again this summer at Omaha's Elmwood Park.

The Nebraska Shakespeare Festival is preparing for its 10th season of providing superior entertainment for free, with the help of the Bard of Stratford on Avon.

The plays to be presented this summer are a comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew," to be directed by Phaneuf, and "Henry V," a historical drama, directed by John Ahlin.

Ahlin, who is an actor/director from New York, has been with the NSF company for several seasons.

Phaneuf is a professor of theater at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. She is also the co-founder of NSF and has directed eight previous NSF productions.

Michael Markey, managing director of the NSF, said the make-up of the company is about "50-50" when it comes to talent from inside and outside the metro Omaha area. Auditions are held in New York and Chicago, as well as Omaha, attracting potential players from all over the country.

"Both shows are popular with actors," Markey said, "so we do expect a good turnout."

The company for both plays will total about 35 actors.

Markey said the NSF worked in cooperation with UNO and Creighton. It employs students from both schools during the run, and some high schools get in the act, as well.

Auditions will be held this weekend, both Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building on the UNO campus. For more information about the 1996 season, auditions or supporting the Festival, call (402) 280-2391.

ing."). But delivering the speeches of his own father proved to be the most difficult part of writing the show.

"It was just too close," he said. The first version of "Father-Land" made its premiere in late 1990, but followed a wider variety of thoughts and themes than the current version, he said.

"The first one was a kind of an octopus of a play," he said.

Other artists are featured as well.

Although Raz likes both plays, the latter is his preferred one.

"It was definitely a positive evolution," he said.

Raz will be in residence during February and March as a part of the UNL College of Fine and Performing Arts Artists Diversity Residency Program, which brings in artists from various backgrounds to speak on themes of interest.

Raz's future plans include playing Bottom in a summer production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and trying to do "Father-Land" in San Francisco, he said.

"I'm also going to do a round of auditioning," he said, "and try to start up an apprentice program for youngsters who want to perform in the circus."

Tickets for tonight's performance of "Father-Land" are $10 for the general public and $5 for students, and are available at the Lied Center Box Office.

"They use an energy that's incredible, explosive," Voorhees said.

Zollar will be the host of a discussion to address comments and questions from the audience in the Lied's main auditorium immediately following the performance.

Tickets are $24, $20 and $16, half-price for children under 18 and students with identification. Tickets are available daily from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 90 minutes before the performance in the Lied Box Office.
