Strickland doesn't practice

From Staff Reports

Two days after practicing with the Nebraska football team, Erick Strickland was a no-show Wednesday.

Strickland, a former second-team All-Big Eight basketball player whose eligibility expired last month, said Monday that he planned to practice football for a week. After that, he said, he would concentrate on continuing to improve his status for next month's NBA draft.

Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne said he hadn't seen Strickland since Monday's practice.

Osborne said Strickland's apparent halfhearted interest in football could be a result of confusion in the weeks leading up to the draft.

Strickland, an all-state wide receiver and linebacker while in high school, worked out Monday with the Cornhusker wide receivers. He said if he was not happy with the way his basketball career was progressing, he would join the football team next fall.

Strickland, who played in the Florida Marlins organization before his freshman and sophomore years, has one year of football eligibility.

If he decides to play football, he would have to be placed on scholarship or walk on to the team. Giving Strickland a scholarship would be a big gamble, Osborne said.

Huskers to face UMKC

By Mike Kluck Senior Reporter

After surviving a strong physical test last weekend from Kansas, the Nebraska softball team will face a mental battle today when it faces Missouri-Kansas City.

The No. 17 Cornhuskers, who are in first place in the Big 12 Conference, will play the Kangaroos in a doubleheader starting at 4 p.m. at the Nebraska Softball Complex.

Last weekend the Huskers, 25-12 overall and 3-1 in the conference, lost their first game to the Jayhawks but responded with two wins, 15-11 and 6-4 in nine innings, to win the weekend series.

The Huskers' extra-inning win, in which they came back from a 4-1 seventh-inning deficit, Coach Rhonda Revelle said, helped the team's confidence.

"Our team needed a win that way more than anything else," Revelle said. "We scrapped our way to a tie. It was completely unconventional on how we did all of our scoring."

After the Huskers tied the score in the seventh inning, senior Karla Knicely hit her first home run of the season in the ninth inning to win the game.

"We've been waiting to get on this road, and I think we're going to ride it," Revelle said.

But Revelle said she expected UMKC to present the Huskers with a new challenge.

"UMKC is a test for us," Revelle said. "It's a mental test because physically we should beat them. But if we let down mentally, they're gunning for us."

A Kangaroo win today would make UMKC's season, she said. But instead of concentrating on the Kangaroos, Revelle said she had made sure the Huskers stayed focused on doing what they need to do to win.

"We have to come out sharp," she said, "and we need to look at it as if we have to stay in our game. Every game we play right now is going to reinforce the next game."

On Saturday, the Huskers travel to College Station, Texas, to face 12th-ranked Texas A&M in a three-game series.

Fullback Schuster injured

From Staff Reports

In football practice Wednesday, No. 1 fullback Brian Schuster went down with a pulled hamstring. Coach Tom Osborne said Schuster would not return this spring.

Schuster's injury adds to Nebraska's problem of keeping quality running backs on the field.

"We started the spring with five experienced running backs," Osborne said. "Now three of the five are down."

Osborne said he hoped No. 2 I-back Damon Benning and No. 3 I-back James Sims would return to practice Friday or early next week.
