Board recommends bus fare increase

By Todd Anderson
Staff Reporter

The StarTran Advisory Board voted Thursday to recommend to the mayor and City Council an increase in cash bus fares and the deletion of special services.

At the board's regular meeting Thursday morning, Larry Worth, StarTran transit manager, presented the recommendation, along with community responses gathered at a public hearing and from telephone calls and letters.

After further testimony from a handful of concerned citizens, the board passed the recommended changes.

The recommendations include:

- raising the regular cash fare rate from 75 cents to 85 cents, the adult ticket 20-ride ticket book from $15 to $17, and the low-income ticket book from $7 to $8.50,
- raising the Go-for-Less/Senior cash fare from 35 cents to 40 cents, (The punch card will not change.)
- raising the child cash fare from 45 cents to 50 cents and the student ticket book from $9 to $10,
- raising the Handi Van/Brokerage Cash Fare from $1.50 to $1.70, the Handi Van/Brokerage ticket book from $30 to $34, and the low-income Handi Van/Brokerage ticket book from $15 to $17,

- changing the fare for the Holiday Light Tour from $1 paid upon boarding to $2 paid in advance,

- raising the fare for the Big Red Express from $1 for adults to $2, (The children's fare will stay at $1.)

- deleting the StarTran Taxi Program, which provides taxi discount coupons to eligible persons with disabilities,

- deleting special Nebraska State Fair Services,

- limiting revenue loss of StarTran Low-Income Discount Fare Program to $25,000.

Worth said the 800 people now using the StarTran Taxi Program could continue to use the taxi system, just without the discounts. He said they also could use the regular city buses or the Handi Vans.

Worth said the State Fair Board possibly could cooperate with StarTran to develop a continued State Fair bus system.

The board said it would investigate how to disperse the $25,000 in discounted tickets to the various social service agencies in Lincoln.

Worth said the recommendations now go to the mayor and City Council to be used to develop the annual budget. Mayor Mike Johanns will release his budget plan June 1.

Chancellor Moeser to be inducted today at the Lied Center

Although Chancellor James Moeser has been at UNL for almost three months, he will be formally inducted as the top administrator this afternoon.

Moeser's investiture — the official name of the ceremony — will be today at 3:30 at the Lied Center for Performing Arts.

To kick off the ceremony, 160 faculty members dressed in academic robes will walk through the campus, starting at the Campus Recreation Center, said Lawrence Mallett, chairman of the planning committee and director of the School of Music.

The procession, led by a Dixieland band, will start at 3 p.m. and arrive at the Lied Center by 3:30.

During the ceremony, Gov. Ben Nelson and Mayor Mike Johanns will greet Moeser and give welcoming addresses.

Deans from UNL colleges also will welcome the new chancellor, he said.

NU President Dennis Smith will perform the rest of the ceremony, as he installs Moeser as UNL's 18th chancellor, Mallett said.

The ceremony will feature musical performances by groups from the School of Music, he said.

"We put together a good program for this ceremony, and Dr. Moeser was fine with the selections," Mallett said. "He wanted music to be involved in a major way, from the Dixieland band to the ending recessions."

Mallett said he and his committee had been planning the investiture since the end of February. A reception after the ceremony will be at the Sheldon Memorial Sculpture Garden.

"We hope many will plan to attend," Mallett said.

Regents will discuss proposal to cancel two degree majors

The NU Board of Regents will be asked to approve a proposal to discontinue two UNL degree majors at its monthly meeting Saturday.

The degree majors, both graduate degrees in the Teachers College at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, are an educational specialist degree in vocational education and an educational specialist degree in health, physical education and recreation.

In other business, the board also will be asked to approve a 3.7 percent tuition increase for high school independent study courses through the Division of Continuing Studies.

The board also will be asked to approve an increase in University Program and Facilities Fees (Fund B) for UNL's student fees.

Each student would pay $177.98 for these fees, which cover the Nebraska Unions, Campus Recreation and the University Health Center.
