

Above left: Lance Koenig hands out flyers to students as they leave the afternoon Campus Life skits Tuesday in the Culture Center. (Photo by Matthew Waite)
 Above: Lee Reinhardt, right, and Dorene Johnson share laughter and breakfast at Selleck Hall Tuesday. (Photo by Tanna Kinnaman)

Tou NSE lead

By Matthew Waite
 Editor

Jisella Veeth was up early this morning. She has been up early a lot this summer, her and 27 members of her "family."

The family gets up and is at work anywhere from 6 a.m. to 7 a.m. They have a long day ahead of them.

The New Student Enrollment orientation leaders and staff aren't really related. But they say they eat together, go out together and live together — and that's close enough to family for them.

The leaders have taken over 4,000 incoming freshmen through the campus — all in groups of more than 20 — for five weeks now.

Their last day is Friday.

Friday is the end of a semester of