Pinkerton
Weezer
Geffen Records
Grade: B

For all the new groups who cashed in on the alternative craze of 1993, this year seems to follow up their smash albums.

First it was Beck, who people originally wrote off as an alternative poser. This year he answered with the astoundingly good album "Odelay."

Weezer, another act that got criticism for jumping on the bandwagon, now steps up to bat with "Pinkerton," its follow-up to its self-titled album.

Weezer's deft sense of humor still is apparent in most of the songs on "Pinkerton." This is especially evident in "Pink Triangle," a hilarious song about a man who yearns for a woman who is a lesbian.

Other self-defeating songs like "Tired of Sex" also stand out.

Weezer's album clocks in just shy of 40 minutes. The band is tight enough to pound out great three-minute ditties with catchy-as-hell guitar and drum riffs.

However, the band departs from the sing-along anthems of its last album. None of the songs grabs you like "Buddy Holly" or "My Name is Jonas" did on the last album.

Yet the lyrics are the main reason to listen to "Pinkerton." Vocalist and guitarist Rivers Cuomo wrote all 10 songs of "Pinkerton" in the exact order that they appear.

What "Pinkerton" lacks is a producer. Ex-Cars whiz Ric Ocasek produced Weezer's last album and elevated the band from potential one-hit-wonder status. The band could have used his help with "Pinkerton." Instead, the band opted to produce the album itself, and this shows. (At least Beck hired the Dust Brothers to produce the sonic potpourri of "Odelay"). Without a producer, "Pinkerton" is a good, but ultimately forgettable, release.

ACES HIGH
Aces High
Grade: B-

If you're looking for a local country band with a laid-back style, search no longer.

Aces High is a local country band with UNL roots. Besides recently performing at Prairie Stomp, five musicians in the six-piece band are UNL students, professors or alumni.

Not only is the promotional tape a gauge of how a concert would sound, it's passable music.

George Strait's songs are primarily featured. Vocalist Mark Keaton has varying degrees of success. His low ranges are almost Strait-like.

A couple of tracks also have some excellent vocal harmony.

The instrumentalists have definite talent. Fiddler Patrick Nowak shines on a Strait classic, "Amarillo by Morning" and "Orange Blossom Special." Jerry Maranville shows his ability on steel guitar throughout the album.

A few tunes on the album are original and the rest are songs any self-respecting country fan knows. It would be great to see more original songs, though.

This blue-collar band at least has the aura of real-life cowboys at home on the range — and that's all that really counts.

Tapes can be ordered from Aces High, c/o Mark Keaton, RR 1 Box 146B, Denton, Neb., 68339.
