IN MANY COMPANIES
IT TAKES YEARS TO PROVE YOU'RE MANAGEMENT MATERIAL.

WE'LL GIVE YOU 10 WEEKS.

Ten weeks may not seem like much time to prove you're capable of being a leader. But if you're tough, smart and determined, ten weeks and a lot of hard work could make you an Officer of Marines. And Officer Candidates School (OCS) is where you'll get the chance to prove you've got what it takes to lead a life full of excitement, full of challenge, full of honor. Anyone can say they've got what it takes to be a leader, we'll give you ten weeks to prove it.

Golfers set school records

From Staff Reports

The Nebraska women's golf team fired a school-record 296 Monday in College Station, Texas, to take a commanding lead in the first-ever Big 12 Preview.

The Cornhuskers followed Sunday's round of 300 with the new record, which beat the old mark of 297 by one stroke. The Huskers lead Missouri by 25 strokes heading into the final day of competition.

Individually, NU has been led by Shirin Hornecker and Hanne Nyquist. Nyquist, a freshman from Oslo, Norway, shot a 33 on the back nine Monday for a round of 70, which tied the school record held by Heidi Wall and Shelly Godeken.

"Hanne has shown a lot of ability," Husker Coach Robin Krapfl said. "She just hasn't been able to hit some putts. But everything finally came together for her."

Nyquist and Hornecker, who are tied at 147 after two days, lead Stephanie Mitchell of Missouri and Gwynn Shepherd of Iowa State by one stroke. Nebraska's Rachelle Tacha is tied for fifth with a score of 150.

Other Huskers include Melissa Becker (25th at 159), Gretchen Doerr (31st at 160), Elizabeth Bahensky (51st at 164) and Denise Woodard (54th at 166).

The tournament's final round will begin today at 8 a.m. on the par-72 Pebble Creek Club Golf Course.

"The main thing for us will be to go out and just play the course and not worry about who's in front of us or who's in back of us."

Battle Creek lineman commits

Recruits cannot sign letters of intent until February.

The 6-foot-5, 275-pound Volk, who plays left tackle on offense and defensive end, has helped Class C-1 Battle Creek to a 5-0 start this season.

Against Stanton last Friday, Volk blocked his second punt of the season and returned it for a touchdown, helping Battle Creek to a 39-6 victory.

"He just keeps getting better every game," Battle Creek Coach Bob Schnitzler said. "He's getting quicker and faster. I definitely feel very high about his chances of being a great football player."

Until Monday, Volk said, he had not received offers from any other schools. But just before Osborne called him back, Volk said, he received a scholarship offer from Kansas State.

"I didn't really say anything," Volk said. "I'm going to have to tell them later. I guess it was kind of a bad-timing deal."

Volk said he has attended each Nebraska home game this season by invitation from the NU coaches. The potential recruits were allowed on the field during pregame warmups—during which time Volk was able to talk with Osborne.

"He's a real nice guy," Volk said. "Quiet, but he's real nice."

Schnitzler has been impressed with the improvement Volk has made since June, when the longtime Battle Creek coach said Volk "made a commitment to play college football."

Not only has Volk put on 35 pounds

1996 Nebraska Football Verbal Commitments

The nine players listed below have verbally committed to attend NU next year.

Name	Position	HT.	WT.	Hometown
James Burrow	LB	6-2	175	Lincoln
Eric Crouch	QB	6-1	190	Millard North
Davidson	QB	6-1	170	Lincoln
Kyle Kollmorgen	OL	6-4	270	Lincoln Southeast
Bobby Newcomb	QB	6-0	155	Lincoln
Erwin Swiney	WR	6-0	175	Lincoln Northeast
Kyle Vanden Bosch	DE	6-4	255	Lincoln
Mark Vedral	TE	6-1	200	Gregory, S.D.
Dave Volk	OL	6-5	275	Battle Creek in the past four months, but he has increased his bench press 40 pounds to 300.

Schnitzler said he would not be surprised if Volk gained 25 more pounds by the time his college career is complete.

"The kid has always had an awesome frame," Schnitzler said. "He really feels good about himself. He's just going to blossom."

Volk, who ran a 5.5-second 40-yard dash at Nebraska's football camp in June, said the coaches did not specify if he would play offensive or defensive line.

"I'm going to redshirt for sure," Volk said. "You almost have to redshirt if you're a lineman."

Nebraska junior guard Matt Hoskinson, also from Battle Creek, has kept in contact with Volk and aided his decision.

"He basically has just been talking to me and telling me what the coaches have been saying," Volk said.

Volk scored a 28 on his ACT and has qualified academically with a 2.9 grade-point average.

"Academically he's very strong," Schnitzler said. "Basically, I'd say he's a good all-around kid."

I-back Evans climbs Husker ladder to start.

Benning returned to practice Monday after missing Saturday's game with a groin injury. Green, who suffered a toe sprain in the third quarter against the Cats, is listed as doubtful for the Baylor game.

Evans, a 5-foot-9, 210-pounder, has been impressive since the start of fall camp, Running Backs Coach Frank Solich said.

"He picked up our offense as quick as anybody that I've ever coached," Solich said. "He's got great toughness about him. He's got great instincts and great cutting ability, and he's a strong, powerful, low-to-the-ground-type runner."

"I knew he would have to have a pretty good day if we were going to move the ball against them."

Before Saturday, Evans had seven carries for 74 yards, 72 of which came against Colorado State. He scored his first career touchdown on a 30-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter against the Rams.

For the season, Evans has 28 carries for 242 yards and three touchdowns. His 8.6 yards-per-carry average leads the team.

Evans' high school numbers had both Husker fans and college coaches drooling over his ability. In 47 games at Collegiate High School, he rushed for 8,473 yards—fourth nationally all-time—for an average of 206.7 yards per game. His 131 touchdowns rank third nationally.

Those numbers could have been higher, but he missed six games of his senior season with an ankle injury.

Evans has been compared to former Wichita high school star, Oklahoma State tailback and current Detroit Lions' all-pro Barry Sanders.

But with that comparison have come a lot of questions. Evans said many wondered if could be as successful in college as he was in high school.

"A lot of people had doubts about me being able to play at this level," Evans said. "There were so many people saying, 'DeAngelo can't take a hit, or he can't do this.' But when I came to Nebraska this summer, I told myself I was going to make a believer out of everybody."

"Playing well was like taking a 1,000-pound weight off my shoulders."

Solich said he was comfortable asking a freshman to play such a major role.

Evans is comfortable, too. "I still have a lot to learn," he said. "But I think I will learn by experience. I think I'll be ready with the help of other people."

Iowa State goes for three straight

But the major reason behind ISU improvement, McCarney said, starts with the team's work ethic.

"A two-game winning streak might be matter of fact for most people," McCarney said. "We've got blue-collar kids that work to improve every week."

Junior tailback Troy Davis has carried the load for the Cyclones this fall; and then he's carried it again and again.

Throughout four games, Davis has carried the ball 149 times for 917 yards and 12 touchdowns. He leads the nation, averaging 229.3 yards per game.

In ISU's last two games, Davis carried the ball 94 times and quarterback Todd Doxzon connected on 60 percent of his passes.

"The word Heisman has not come up in any conversation I've had with him," McCarney said of Davis, who ran for 2,010 yards and finished fifth in the Heisman voting.

"He's definitely helped bring some national exposure to this program,"

McCarney said.

Texas A&M Coach R.C. Slocum said Davis is an exciting running back.

"He's a fantastic player," Slocum said. "He is fun to watch—except when you play him."

The Cyclones rank last in the Big 12 in total defense. They rank ninth in rush defense and 11th in pass defense.

"The most important thing is we are evaluated on a season, not any one game Troy Davis has," McCarney said. "He's an outstanding football player, and we're very fortunate to have him at Iowa State."
