

Dole plans for finale tour

Campaign will 'rock around the clock' for victory

MIAMI (AP)—Pledging to "shake up this race," Bob Dole said Thursday he would battle to the finish in a 96-hour, nonstop tour of the nation. He compared the drive to his wartime fighting in Europe.

"The last time I fought 'round the clock for my country was in 1945 in Italy," Dole said. "Beginning at noon tomorrow, I will once again fight 'round the clock for America's future."

"The stakes are that high," he told a Miami rally.

"We're going to roll through the night and we're going to rock around the clock," said Dole campaign spokesman Nelson Warfield, promising some middle-of-the night campaign events.

The Dole campaign said he would travel by bus, plane and other transportation in the campaign finale.

The sprint was reminiscent of President Clinton's own 30-hour, 10-city trip at the end of the 1992 campaign.

"In the home stretch of this campaign, I intend to take my message to Americans nonstop," Dole said. "I am determined to make every hour of this decisive election count."

"From the factories of Michigan through the bluegrass of Kentucky, in the towns and neighborhoods of the Midwest, across the Rocky Mountains, through the cities and streets of California, I will give it all I've got," he said.

"Ninety-six hours."

Earlier today, in Tampa, Dole suggested Clinton may have committed illegal acts in the White House and wasn't telling the truth on Medicare or any other issue. "How low will this White House go?" he asked.

Dole appealed to the area's big elderly population not to believe a barrage of Democratic ads claiming that Dole and other Republicans intend to slash Medicare spending.

"I call it irresponsible. The White House shouldn't be in the business of distorting the truth and scaring seniors," Dole said, speaking at the ornate Tampa Theatre.

Clinton campaign sticks to safe, routine themes

The president visits Arizona and Nevada as Election Day nears.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Publicly ignoring the controversy over his party's money-raising tactics, President Clinton Thursday stuck to the safe campaign themes his strategists believe have brought him to the brink of re-election.

"There's that great big future out there," Clinton told a rally in bright sunshine outside the Grady Gammage Auditorium of Arizona State University campus. "We're going forward to the 21st century as one community."

Clinton, in his third visit to Arizona in this campaign, pressed his familiar argument that his administration's policies are making progress in fighting crime and drug abuse, as well as helping parents succeed both at work and at home.

"We can make our streets safer for our children and their future if we all work together," he said, adding that if re-elected he would push for more generous tax breaks for families facing the burden of college tuition for their children.

Addressing a rally at the National Western Events Center in Denver, Clinton said that unlike many other countries the United States has made its racial and religious diversity a strength rather than a source of conflict and division.

"It's good, and I want more of it," he said, adding that his administration's goal was to "build an American community where everybody has a seat at the table and a role to play." This is the type of rhetoric that Clinton has made the centerpiece of his stump speeches in these final days of the campaign.

His Denver speech was interrupted by a small group of hecklers in the crowd who waved Dole-Kemp banners and shouted. Clinton seemed ready for them.

"The only reason they're screaming is the truth hurts," he said to wild cheers.

Earlier in a speech at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, Clinton promised an extension of a Small Business Administration program designed to help female entrepreneurs.

In Denver on Wednesday night, Clinton sounded the familiar theme of strengthening the "American community" through greater racial and religious tolerance.

Brazilian jet crash kills 98

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A Brazilian jetliner crashed into a residential neighborhood in Sao Paulo shortly after takeoff today, igniting flames that engulfed apartments, homes and cars. A civil defense official said all 95 people on board were killed.

Three other bodies were pulled from the rubble, and the death toll was expected to rise as firefighters searched homes and apartments struck and set on fire by the crash.

At least three Americans were on the plane, the U.S. consulate in Sao Paulo said.

Citibank identified one as David Francis Tobolla, a financial director at the company. His hometown was not released. A second was identified as David Andrews, 49, of San Jose, Calif., a vice president of Behring Diagnostics Inc.-Americas, a subsidiary of the Hoechst pharmaceutical group.

One resident of the middle-class neighborhood where the plane crashed said he saw "a river of fuel on fire flowing down the street."

Dozens of bodies lay covered with black plastic on the sidewalk, while firemen sprayed water on smoking rubble. Pieces of the plane were strewn over the neighborhood, and parked cars were burning.

Thirteen people were treated for shock, burns and minor injuries at the nearby Jabaquara Municipal Hospital. Seven were hospitalized, one in serious condition with burns.

Police and firemen used plywood planks as makeshift stretchers to carry bodies to morgue trucks.

Roberto Pacheco de Toledo, head of the police's Special Operations Group, said 98 bodies were in the morgue.

Refugees flee for safety after food supply cut

GOMA, Zaire (AP)—Warfare and looting choked off the food supply for 700,000 refugees Thursday, sending tens of thousands streaming south in a desperate search for food and safety.

Aid agencies halted food distribution in the Goma area — which now includes the world's largest refugee camp — because of looting by Zairian troops and said they would have to evacuate foreign workers.

Cars packed with people and their salvaged household goods sped south, and streams of others trudged by on foot, carrying reed mats and food sacks on their heads and babies on their backs.

Artillery duels raged all morning around Goma's airport — the only route for food supplies to the 700,000 Rwandan Hutu refugees living in sprawling camps near the shores of Lake Kivu.

But even that lifeline was cut Thursday — the airport remained in Zairian hands but was closed by fighting. Road routes from Rwanda, Burundi and Uganda into Zaire have already been shut.

After capturing the provincial capital of Bukavu on Wednesday, the Tutsis, who are fighting to repel Zairian army attacks and to push the Rwandan Hutu refugees further into Zaire, closed in on Goma, 60 miles north of Bukavu.

Reports of a two-pronged Tutsi attack on Zairian positions north of Goma sent more than 110,000 Rwandan refugees from the Kahindo refugee camp and 20,000 local residents fleeing along dirt paths toward Goma's Mugunga camp.

Dole to visit Omaha for Republican rally

From Staff Reports

Bob Dole will visit Omaha for the first time since May this weekend during a final run down the campaign trail before the Tuesday elections.

The Republican candidate for president will be at Eppley Airfield's Sky Harbor at 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Dole and his wife Elizabeth will campaign for Republican U.S. Senate candidate Chuck Hagel, Omaha Mayor Hal Daub and State Republican Party Chairman Chuck Sigerson.

Dole's last visit to Nebraska was in May for a crime rally in Omaha.
