City's one serviceman fixes broken meters on R Street

By JOSH FUNK
Staff Reporter

The city's one serviceman is working to repair the faulty parking meters along R Street in front of the Nebraska Union.

Two weeks ago, a Daily Nebraskan investigation found that nearly one-third of the meters along R Street from 12th Street to 16th Street either kept time incorrectly, registered less than 60 minutes when a quarter was deposited or some combination of the two problems.

Traffic engineer Larry Brage said the city hasn't been able to look at all of the meters because its serviceman was on vacation for five days.

The city pulled the timing mechanism from eight of the meters for testing.

To test the timing of the meters, the serviceman must remove the mechanism from the meter and take it into his shop for testing.

While the meters are being tested they are replaced with reliable mechanisms from stock.

In the shop the meters are hooked up to a diagnostic timer to evaluate how well they keep time.

"Of the eight we have looked at so far we found one that was really bad and replaced the timing mechanism on several of the meters," Brage said.

Many of the jammed meters along the street were fixed in response to complaints from the police department, Brage said.

The city will continue to work to fix the rest of the faulty meters along R Street.

"I am by no means satisfied with what we have done so far," Brage said. "The meters should be working well."

Meters that continue to perform badly even after the serviceman works on them will be replaced.

"If we can't get any assurance that these meters are going to work well, I don't want them out there," Brage said.

New ASUN members receive appointments

By BRAD DAVIS
Staff Reporter

After several weeks of recruitment and selection processes, new committee members were appointed at Wednesday's meeting of the Association of Students of the University of Nebraska.

Appointments were unanimously approved for 33 ASUN committees during the last meeting of the semester, which was at the Nebraska East Union.

A "plethora" of applications were received by ASUN Speaker Viet Hoang, who was in charge of appointing the new members.

"(Committee members) are the people who give the senate notification on what student government needs to work on — it's kind of a think-tank," 2nd vice president Malcolm Kass said.

Kass attended the last meeting of the Residence Hall Association as an ASUN representative and said the group was discussing extended shuttle bus service during dead week. The buses will run from 11:15 p.m. to 2 a.m. during dead week and finals week.

In other ASUN news: ■ Government Bill No. 8 passed unanimously. The bill, which deals with "phased-out" technology, will recommend that computers replaced by the new technology fee be given to student organizations at little or no charge. The student organizations would be responsible for the maintenance of the donated computers.

"The point behind this bill is that there will be a large number of computers that will be replaced. They have not been offered to student organizations before, and many of the offices have no computers," President Curt Ruwe said.

■ Senate Bill No. 2 also was unanimously passed. The bill recognized the new constitutions of two student organizations: Golf Course Support Association of America and the University Program Council.

Hoang applauded the senate for its enthusiastic work during the last half of this semester, and encouraged them to continue improving the campus when ASUN reconvenes next semester.
