On the safe side

For some people, hiring a wedding coordinator is like an insurance policy for a foolproof wedding ceremony. Page 3

In the hole

As many people have discovered, borrowing money can be a costly venture. But credit advisors are here to help. Page 4

Back to (high) school

Ten years may be just what some people need to get over their high school experience; but as one DN columnist discovered at his high school reunion, some things never really change. Page 5

Struggling art

DN columnist Cliff Hicks has some advice for would-be and wouldn't-be artists. Just do it. (Create, that is.) Page 5

C'mon ride the bus

For those Lincolinites without automobiles, life can be one long bus ride. Page 6

Hello, coach

After a weeks of waiting, Paul Sanderford has been named head coach of NU's women's basketball team. And he's ready to start thinking about a championship. Page 7

All that jazz

Rogues Gallery, a new jazz bar, has opened in downtown Lincoln. Page 8

Coming soon ...

The Cornhuskers are securing their football future with some in-state talent. Two more Nebraska athletes have made verbal commitments with the Huskers in the past week. Page 8

Batman doesn't fly

"Batman and Robin," the latest installment in the Batman film series, doesn't live up to the standards of its predecessors. Page 9
