Soccer team wins twice on 15 goals

"We are moving in the right direction," Uppinghouse said. "If we keep playing like we did this weekend we will be all right."

The Huskers second score came when an NU shot bounced off Arkansas sophomore Nicole Bynum and into the goal.

Amy Walsh scored the first of her two goals for the game at the 33 minute mark and then freshman Lauren Tatum closed out the first half scoring with her first ever goal on an assist from Walsh.

NU junior Kim Engesser followed up her three-goal performance on Thursday night with two goals against Arkansas. Engesser finished with five goals for the weekend tying her with Morneau for the most goals in two consecutive games.

Walsh scored her second goal in the 71st minute to give NU a 7-0 lead. Another freshman recorded her first career goal in the 75th minute. Julie Greco chipped in a goal to finish out Nebraska's scoring. Walker said the contribution by the younger players is not only important now, but could prove to be crucial later in the season.

Penn State trips NU

Senior outside hitter and All-American Lisa Reitsma led the Huskers with 13 kills in the first game—the most recorded by a Husker in one game this year.

"We should have done it," Reitsma said. "I could see it in (Penn State's) eyes. We just couldn't put them away."

NU sophomore middle blocker Tonia Tauke had six of her career-high 11 kills in the second game to keep NU close, but it wasn't enough to hold off the Nittany Lions' balanced attack.

Game three, like the first two, went back and forth with Penn State prevailing 16-14. Despite the loss, the Huskers were still able to hold the Nittany Lions to a season low .161 hitting percentage, well below their .370 average.

"If that's the No. 1 team in the country, then we're right there," Pettit said.

Penn State coach Russ Rose said he hopes the Huskers and Lions get another chance to play this fall.

"Hopefully, we could get these two teams to play again, but I would prefer it not to be in Lincoln, Neb." Rose said.

Huskers defeat Wisconsin

of five Badger service errors, and broke a 10-10 tie, by scoring five straight points to win the first game.

Wisconsin coach John Cook said his team was pumped up after Friday's three-game victory over the No. 10 Texas Longhorns, and couldn't relax against the Huskers.

"We were pretty tense out there," Cook said. "It's a Final Four-like atmosphere out there, and we were probably pressing a bit too much."

NU held Wisconsin to a .036 hitting percentage in the second game.

"I feel like we had a very good weekend, and we won a very tough road match against Wisconsin," Pettit said.

Two Huskers — Nepo and sophomore Tonia Tauke — impressed Pettit with their performance.

"(Nepo) was so quick at the net, and if you blink she'll take advantage of that, and I really thought she kept us organized when Wisconsin made a run at us," Pettit said.

"I don't know what Tonia has been eating recently, but she's convinced that she's found some technical thing that allows her to be a great attacker."

Tauke had 19 kills and hit .421 over the weekend, including a career high 11 on Friday versus Penn State.

"I'm very impressed with Wisconsin volleyball," Pettit said. "I'm impressed with the fans. They remind me of the fans in Lincoln."
