Huskers hope to halt losing streak in Texas

TEXAS from page 7

UT is led by 6-foot-5 forward Kris Clack, who missed several games with an injured knee. Clack averaged 16 points per game before the injury and saw about 20 minutes of playing time in an 88-79 win over Texas Tech Saturday. In two contests against the Huskers last season, Clack averaged 11 points per game.

Nee said Texas is a different team with Clack in the lineup and will provide NU with matchup problems.

"I think Clack is a tremendous player," Nee said. "Half-Clack is dangerous. He's their bonafide go-to guy."

The Longhorns also feature two freshmen who are also likely to see significant playing time. Luke Axtell, a 6-9 guard, averages 13.5 points per game and 7-foot center Chris Mihm is averaging 9.6 points per contest.

Despite the Longhorns' inexperience, Nee said Texas can hurt the Huskers with young players.

"Their underclassmen are some of the best underclassmen in the country,"

Nee said. "I think with Axtell and Mihm, they have a great nucleus."

Junior Venson Hamilton said UT's youth may help Nebraska on the road.

"I think since they're younger, we can use our experience against them a little," Hamilton said.

Another factor, Nee said, will be Texas's physical style of play, similar to that of Oklahoma. UT features four players over 6-9 who see significant minutes and have no aversion to throwing elbows.

That goes hand-in-hand with the Longhorn's unpredictability. UT is known to play in spurts.

"Texas is the type of team where you're never out of the game and you're never in the game," Nee said. "You could be up by 10 and down by 10 in a five-minute span."

Still, Nee said he's confident Nebraska can end the curse of the Lone Star state.

"We've played them enough now that I feel comfortable bringing our team in now."

good football players in Canada."

"But whoever is the starter on our team, they'll do a great job. Every running back here is very good."

Another player who will join the Huskers this season is wingback Ben Cornelson from Shawnee Mission, Kan. Cornelson sat out last fall after having surgery on a dislocated shoulder, saving a year of eligibility.

He planned on joining the team this month but was sidelined with another injury in a car accident Saturday. Cornelson tore ligaments in his knee and said he is aiming for a summer return.

Cornelson said the NU coaches supported him throughout the season.

"The coaches have all been great here," Cornelson said. "It's because of them that I've been able to deal with it better."

In other recruiting news, the Huskers are still in the running for quarterback Jason Thomas of Dominguez High School in Compton, Calif.

One of the top run/pass quarterbacks in the nation, the 6-5, 225-pounder threw for 1,431 yards and 10 touchdowns and rushed for 894 yards and 22 touchdowns as a junior. He was injured most of his senior season.

Thomas said he has narrowed his choices down to Nebraska and Southern California. Still, Thomas said, he is leaning towards USC.

"It's probably 60-40 USC right now," Thomas said. "A lot of that has to do with wanting to stay close to home so that my family can see me play every once in a while."

Thomas said NU coaches told him that there would be a scholarship available for him if he made his decision by signing day. The Huskers already have at least 20 verbal commitments.
