Law & Order

Lawyer files for plea

Lawyers for the man accused of raping a Union College woman argued on Tuesday that the state did not have enough evidence for trial.

Vinson Champ's attorney, public defender Michael Gooch, filed a plea in abatement Tuesday, which alleges that his March 19 preliminary hearing in county court was insufficient.

Gooch argued the evidence against Champ did not warrant a trial.

One example Gooch cited was that the alleged victim could not identify the race of her attacker. Also, Champ was implicated only by scientific tests, though no experts were brought in to present that evidence.

A police officer reported the tests as more evidence he had gathered, Gooch said.

Deputy County Attorney Jodi Nelson answered that this case is not unlike many others where DNA evidence was used.

The tests were offered at the preliminary hearing to show probable cause in the case, Nelson said.

District Court Judge Paul Merritt said he would take the matter under advisement and make his ruling after reading the transcript of the preliminary hearing.

Hearing moved back

A preliminary hearing for the man accused of murdering his father last fall has been pushed back to mid-May.

The defense's motion for a continuance was granted Tuesday after the defendant, Matthew Dunagan, 18, waived his right to a speedy trial at the request of the prosecution.

The preliminary hearing was rescheduled for May 19.

Judge Merritt also cleared Dunagan to travel to Omaha with his mother on Mother's Day provided he stays with her at all times.

Boy hit by car

An 8-year-old boy hit by a car downtown Monday suffered only minor injuries.

The driver was eastbound on N Street around 4:30 p.m. when the boy darted out from in front of a parked car, Lincoln Police Sgt. Ann Heermann said.

The driver said she saw a child's head as he ran out from in front of the parked car. She braked and swerved but could not avoid the boy. She was not cited in the accident.

Police said the boy only suffered minor injuries and walked away from the incident.

ASSIST MEDICAL RESEARCH

Before any consumer product or pharmaceutical can be marketed, it must be thoroughly tested for safety and effectiveness. We've been conducting clinical testing at MDS Harris since 1969. In that time, we've become one of the largest and most respected independent testing laboratories in the world.

HARRIS TESTING PAYS

Participating in a research study at MDS Harris is an easy way to earn extra money—up to $100 a day! All you have to do is have the time to participate and meet the study's health requirements. We have studies to fit anyone's schedule: weekend, weekday, short-visit, and long-term studies are regularly available. You'll even receive a free physical exam before each study.

RELAX AWHILE

Because testing requires a controlled environment, some studies involve overnight stays at an MDS Harris research center. Our research center is like a modern college dormitory with recreation areas, TV rooms with VCRs, lounge areas, and more. So when you're not needed, you're free to relax.
