

Moeser suggests new pass/no pass policy

automatically be noted on a student's transcript. A student's GPA is not affected by withdrawing from a course.

"With these standards in mind, ask yourself if this is where you want this university to be," Moeser said.

"Take these issues — all of the academic control you have — and create a more rigorous environment."

Moeser said he doesn't have a problem with the intent of the pass/no pass grading policy, but only if students are taking classes outside of their major.

"We should and need to encourage students to venture into uncharted, untested waters," he said.

However, Moeser did say allowing a student to take a course for 12 weeks and then drop it is not only a waste of the student's time and money, but also an inconvenience to faculty members.

"I believe (12 weeks) is entirely too late for a student to free-will drop a course," Moeser said. "I want faculty to take action and stop it."

Moeser was assured by senate members that many departments, including chemistry, don't allow students to take courses within their major as a pass/no pass option. However, no senate members commented on procedures and policies for withdrawing from a course in a student's major.

Psychology Professor Don Jensen applauded Moeser and said he supports his efforts.

Jensen said he also would like to see a new pass/no pass and course withdrawal policy applied to a student's minor.

"I want to challenge this university. ..."

Moeser concurred. Newly inaugurated Academic Senate President Patricia Kennedy said the Senate's Executive Committee will discuss the issue and decide if any action needs to be taken by the senate. Moeser said faculty members need to ask themselves if the university is truly rigorous in the academic regulations for students.

"You control this; this is your document — the undergraduate bulletin," he said. "I strongly urge you to take a look at it."

ASSIST MEDICAL RESEARCH

Before any consumer product or pharmaceutical can be marketed, it must be thoroughly tested for safety and effectiveness. We've been conducting clinical testing at MDS Harris since 1969. In that time, we've become one of the largest and most respected independent testing laboratories in the world.

HARRIS TESTING PAYS

Participating in a research study at MDS Harris is an easy way to earn extra money—up to $100 a day! All you have to do is have the time to participate and meet the study's health requirements. We have studies to fit anyone's schedule: weekend, weekday, short-visit, and long-term studies are regularly available. You'll even receive a free physical exam before each study.

RELAX AWHILE

Because testing requires a controlled environment, some studies involve overnight stays at an MDS Harris research center. Our research center is like a modern college dormitory with recreation areas, TV rooms with VCRs, lounge areas, and more. So when you're not needed, you're free to relax.
