

Newcombe to enter fall camp as No. 1 quarterback

Turman had the highest grade when (Tommy) Frazier and (Brook) Berringer were here. If we went by grades alone, there would be a lot of changes around here."

Gill said more could change in the fall if Newcombe gets hurt or performs poorly in practices. But ultimately, Gill said, Newcombe won't likely be replaced.

"It's Bobby's job to lose," Gill said. "He's the No. 1 guy. But he still has to go out and perform."

As for the No. 2 guy, Crouch, Solich said the Omaha native provided NU with quality depth despite his inexperience.

"He's really performed well," Solich said. "And he's still going to be able to compete at that position."

For the starter, Newcombe, Solich said the summer will give him a chance to work on his throwing and prepare for the fall season.

"I think he's a very good quarterback," Solich said. "He's a much better thrower than people believe. He's got a great arm, and I think his timing and accuracy is very good."

Newcombe said the summer will be important to his development at quarterback.

"I'll be up here for four months," Newcombe. "I want to work as much as possible."

Soccer star to coach

BY JAY SAUNDERS

Last season, Rebecca Hornbacher was stopping shots for the Nebraska soccer team.

In the fall, Hornbacher will be teaching goalkeepers at Baylor how to stop shots from Cornhusker attackers.

Hornbacher, NU's starting goalkeeper for the last three years, accepted a job as a graduate assistant under Baylor Coach Randy Waldrum. Hornbacher will have a lot of different coaching obligations, but she will be working mostly with the goalies.

But Hornbacher said that she is excited about being at Baylor not only because she gets to coach soccer, but because she will get to continue her education.

"This might be able to open some doors for a coaching position sometime down the road," she said.

Waldrum, who will be entering his third year at Baylor, has compiled a 31-9-1 record in the last two seasons with the Bears. He said he is excited to have Hornbacher on next year's staff.

"Anytime you can get an All-American from a program as successful as Nebraska," Waldrum said, "you have to be excited. Successful coaches surround themselves with good people. (Hornbacher) certainly fits that description."

Hornbacher already has Nov. 2 circled on her calendar. That is when the Huskers will travel to Waco, Texas, to play Baylor. Hornbacher said she will be a little nervous for that game, but considering NU coach John Walker told her about the Baylor position, going against Nebraska won't be too much of a problem.

Huskers finish ninth at Big 12s

From Staff Reports

In the cool and rainy conditions of Hutchinson, Kan., the Nebraska men's golf team finished ninth Tuesday in the Big 12 Championships.

Oklahoma State won its second conference title in a row as the Cowboys finished 54 holes with an 898. The Cornhuskers ended the championships with a 942.

Hunter Haas of Oklahoma won the individual title with an 8-over-par finish of 218. Steve Friesen, a junior from Lincoln, was the highest NU finisher as he shot a three-round series of 228, which was 18 over par at the Prairie Dunes Country Club.

Sophomore Peter Smith ended the tournament in a tie for 37th as he shot a 238. Juniors Jamie Rogers and Josh Madden finished in a four-way tie for 41st with a series of 240.
