Resolution urges halls to return unused funds

■ The speaker says the bill's purpose is to make sure each residence hall has a chance for RHA money.

By JESSICA FARGEN
Staff writer

The Residence Hall Association passed a resolution Sunday that will keep track of where its money goes after residence halls use it.

The resolution encourages residence halls that use RHA funds for an event to return leftover money from that event to RHA, consistent with what RHA allocated. The resolution also asks RHA fund-users to turn in an expense report.

Speaker of the Senate Larry Willis said the purpose of the bill is to make sure all residence halls have a chance to use RHA funds.

Willis said if RHA allocated $500 for a $2,000 event, but the event only cost $1,800, the remaining $200 would be returned to RHA under the resolution.

However, if RHA allocated $25 for an event, but the event had $250 left over, RHA would receive $25 back.

The resolution asks groups applying for RHA funds to include a clause that says they will abide by the resolution. Willis said it is not necessary for halls to include the clause on small-budget events.

RHA

However, RHA President Ben Wallace said senators could amend a bill to include the clause.

But some senators questioned the fairness of the resolution, which was tabled at last week's meeting.

J.W. Novotny, a Harper Residence Hall senator, said the money should be proportioned out, instead of all remaining money being returned to RHA.

"Each contributor should get a proportion of their money back," he said.

Brian Thomas, a Schramm Residence Hall senator, questioned RHA's authority in the matter.

"Where does it say that RHA has precedence over everyone else?" he asked.

Wallace said the RHA constitution says RHA policies take precedence over policies passed by residence hall governments.

But Laura Sullivan, a Neihardt Residence Hall senator, said if RHA did not ask halls to return money, one hall could end up receiving more funds than another.

"RHA is here to help everyone," she said. "It is not fair if the money goes back to just one hall."

In other RHA news:

RHA allocated $150 for a Cather and Pound residence halls retreat. Last week, Cather and Pound residence halls asked for $330 for the retreat.

Philosophy 101: Logic & Theory

What's the meaning of this ad?

Before you ponder the fundamental principle of this logical question, consider this:
Fazoli's features 12 menu items priced under $4, including Ravioli, Fettuccine Alfredo and Spaghetti. Meaning, in theory, you won't need a student loan to eat here.
