A-Team supporters celebrated a victory for the underdog Wednesday night after finding out A-Team's candidates would be the next to fill the presidential and vice presidential spots on next year's student senate.

Newly elected president Joel Schafer and his running mate, Riley Peterson, reacted with shock after hearing their campaign efforts in the past month and a half resulted in a decisive victory over their run-off opponent, Empower.

"This is the greatest thing that's ever happened to me," Schafer said to supporters after receiving the call from the Association of Students of the University of Nebraska Electoral Commission. "Everyone believed in our message and got behind us."

The caller told Schafer he and his running mate beat the Empower party by 224 votes - 1081 to 857.

Club owner calls ordinance vague

An owner of a Lincoln juice bar asking for sexual contact to be allowed in his business will have to wait for a decision.

The U.S. District Court for the district of Nebraska held a hearing Wednesday about Lincoln's ordinance banning sexual touching in businesses. The court failed to reach a decision.

The plaintiffs, Mataya's Babydolls and John Ways, manager and part owner of Babydolls, are seeking a preliminary injunction preventing the law from going into effect until a trial date is set.

Senate recommends increase in fees

By Sara Salkeld

ASUN voted Wednesday to recommend raising student fees by $15.

The recommended total amount for student fees is $270 per student per semester.

The senate agreed with the majority of recommendations made by the Committee for Fees Allocation but chose to add $3,012 to the ASUN budget.

The Association of Students of the University of Nebraska originally requested $278,112, a large increase over last year's budget of $219,209, because of the addition of NU on Wheels.

CFA recommended ASUN receive $3,012 less than that amount, to be taken from the NU on Wheels budget.

ASUN President Andy Schuerman said, the rides have increased nearly 10 rides per weekend during the past two weeks.

He said because of the increase in the program's popularity, the money

CFA cut from the budget would be detrimental to the program.

Cutting this money could mean that if the number of students using the program were to continue to increase, there would be nowhere to take funding from.

"There could come a point next year when we're out of money, and the program has to be shut down," Schuerman said.
