

Driesbach hired as new Sheldon director

Traveling Exhibition Service, the Oakland Museum in California and John F. Kennedy University in Orinda, Calif., before going to the Crocker museum. There she served twice as interim director, most recently from March 1998 to August 1999.

Now as the Sheldon's newly appointed director, Driesbach said she was eager to learn about the university's needs and resources.

"I want to see what people living here want to see," she said. "What I like about the position here is I get to work with both historic and contemporary art styles. I have a deep passion for American art."

Driesbach spoke of her ideas to engage different university departments with museum projects.

"The first thing I want to accomplish is talking with people, to get their perception of the Sheldon," she said.

Siedell said Driesbach's vision to involve UNL students and faculty with the Sheldon is both exciting and fresh.

"We want to embrace our identity as a university museum," he said.

"We can further education in the liberal arts by curating exhibits for the history, English and art departments. We want to provide ways for students and faculty to be involved in what we are doing."

Driesbach's other concerns include the growth of the Sheldon's collection, upkeep and possible expansion of the building and research of artists from Central United States.

However, Driesbach said she wanted to elevate the Sheldon's visibility in Lincoln, focusing on its artistic treasures.

"The collection here is a jewel, but I don't think many people realize it's right here," she said. "Hopefully, we can get this secret out here and beyond."

New Snipes film a dramatic attempt at movie making

borhood rules," which basically state that two men pull their guns, sprint at each other, miss six shots in a row at point blank range, breathe heavily, then jump off the balcony of the U.N. building.

One lives, one dies (another shiny quarter for guessing who) and in the morning, to and behold, somebody's scooped up the body, swept up the glass, plucked out all the bullets from those nasty neighborhood rules and generally wiped the slate clean for another plot twist. In other words, "The Art of War" is the sequel to "The Matrix."

I could guess at why "The Art of War" was made, but I'd rather stick to my moron explanation. Screenwriter William Goldman once said that in Hollywood, "No one knows anything."

Here's concrete proof, for $4.50. The review, I might add, was absolutely free.
