

CD weaves lesbianism, Celtic, pop flair

BY ANDREW SHAW
She's a mother, a daughter, a priest and a lesbian. But above all, Sinead O'Connor is a woman, and her newest album, "Faith and Courage," discusses and celebrates her balance of these places in society. The dichotomy of Christian life as a lesbian is the theme of the single "No Man's Woman." Initially, the lyrics seem to focus solely on O'Connor's homosexuality. But the second verse delves into a spiritual world where the lyric "man" doesn't refer to gender but encompasses the entire human race. The confidence that O'Connor exudes in her music makes her more naturally beautiful than any pop star of the modern musical era. Her music is filled with honest lyrics and flashes of her Dublin roots. She guilds pop, folk, Celtic and hints of electronica to create a personal sound worthy of imitation, but beyond duplication. O'Connor has done it, on her own terms. If you pass up "Faith and Courage," you are missing a true musical, artistic and political landmark album.

Joyo shows classic films

CLASSICS from 8
with comedies such as "Beetlejuice" and "Young Frankenstein." While the screen will be filled with death and mayhem during the evenings, Saturday afternoons will also fill the screen with red. All televised Husker football games will be shown on the full-sized movie screen. "There won't be a bad seat in the house," Carter said. There is no admission fee for these games. Alcoholic beverages and smoking will be prohibited. Carter said he is doing this for people who don't enjoy going to a smoky bar to watch the game. Tickets for the movies are $4 for adults and $3 for children under sixteen and senior citizens. The theater is at 6102 Havenlock Ave. For movie information, call (402) 464-JOYO.
