mary. Former State Auditor John Breslow of Lincoln received almost twice the votes as Miller.
"The right-to-life groups lied," Miller said. "They passed around voter guides claiming we were pro-abortion. Unfortunately, some people believed that."

Jay Matzke, Seward, 5th District
The university needs to be more active in recruiting all Nebraska high school students and in choosing its own leadership, he said.
"The University of Nebraska apparently does a poor job of picking leaders," Matzke said. "There's a real problem at the top, and we have to ask those dif-icult questions."

Matzke said he thought there are quality leaders already within the university and they should be promoted.

Robert Prokop, Wilber, who is running for the 5th District seat did not return multiple phone calls from the Daily Nebraskan.
Regent Rosemary Skrupa,

Omaha, 8th District
She said education and agriculture were Nebraska's most important issues. Research is important, Skrupa said, but teachers should not let research take away from their teaching.
"We have wonderful teachers," Skrupa said. "If they can motivate students and make them feel good about themselves, they should be in the classroom."

Randy Ferlic, Omaha 8th District
He said most Nebraska residents are not familiar with the role a regent plays, and that's unfortunate.
"They don't have the foggiest," Ferlic said. "They think it's about football tickets."
Ferlic compared the board to the board of directors of a company.

The board sets goals for the university, hires and fires a president and helps implement goals, he said.
Ferlic and Skrupa both said the Board of Regents is responsible for spending between 22 and 27 percent of the state's budget.
"We're a vital position," Ferlic said.
