Man arrested for attempted murder after shooting himself

An Omaha man was arrested for attempted murder Wednesday afternoon after he inadvertently shot himself in the leg during an argument with his ex-girlfriend.

Police were called to the 1300 block of S. 14th Street after gun shots were reported at 1:40 p.m., Lincoln Police Capt. David Beggs said.

William Morrison, 29, had been at his ex-girlfriend's house making threats, and Beggs said Morrison had a .44-caliber handgun in his pocket.

The gun accidentally went off while in Morrison's pocket and injuring him in the leg and foot, Beggs said.

By the time police arrived at the location of shooting, Morrison had fled to a friend's house.

Police said a friend, John Hill, 31, of Lincoln, had provided the gun to Morrison, who as a felon cannot legally have a gun.

Morrison then went to BryanLGH Medical Center West where he was treated and released.

Morrison was arrested for attempted murder and being a felon in possession of a firearm, both felonies. Hill was arrested for providing the gun to an unauthorized person, which is a misdemeanor.

Crete man killed, another injured in car accident

A Crete man was killed in a car accident Tuesday afternoon.

The 63-year-old man was driving east on O Street toward SW 20th Street at 4:40 p.m., when his car collided with a 1985 Ford F150 pickup truck that was stopped for the light, Beggs said.

Tri Kin Nguyen, of Crete, was killed in the accident. The other driver, 46-year-old William Henk, of Seward, sustained minor injuries but did not have to be hospitalized, Lincoln Police Officer Katherine Finnell said.

Nguyen's late 1987 Chevrolet Nova was totaled in the accident, and the truck sustained approximately $2,000 damage, Beggs said. The man was not wearing his seat belt. The speed limit in that area is 40 mph.

Father, son arrested for alleged sexual assault of a juvenile

A father and son were arrested Tuesday for first degree sexual assault of a juvenile girl.

To protect the girl involved, police released few details of the crime. State law classifies juveniles as younger than 16 years old.

Albert R. Wells, 58, and his 16-year-old son, Cody Wells, both of 1427 S. 7th Street, were arrested in connection with an August assault, Finnell said.

Police learned of the assault when the girl reported it to an adult, Finnell said. The girl was believed to have been acquainted with both men.

Discrepancies in stories plague Vedral's trial

At Kelsay's house, he and the woman socialized with the others at the party briefly. That was when the woman first met Vedral.

Then Kelsay and the woman went downstairs to Kelsay's room where the two had sex in the early morning hours of May 6.

The jury must decide what happened during the next few hours of that night. At one point Vedral came into Kelsay's room and had a brief sexual encounter with the woman before she pushed Vedral off of her and asked him to stop.

Vedral's roommates who were home that night, Keith Vanden Bosch and Chris Kelsay, both testified Wednesday, as did next-door neighbors Jason Schwab and Matt Hickey.

At the time of the alleged sexual assault, Kelsay was taking another friend home from the party.

After the encounter with Vedral, the woman searched the duplex for Kelsay before she was rattled by Vanden Bosch and fled next door.

The woman testified she was hysterical during her search, but the men who encountered her at that point did not describe her that way.

She was not until she found refuge in the house next door, said Schwab, who found the woman sobbing in his kitchen after she had let herself in.

While at Schwab's, the woman called friends and was able to talk to Kelsay because he had returned home.

After the woman left with friends to go to the hospital and report the alleged rape, Kelsay, Schwab and Hickey returned to Kelsay's home and asked both Vanden Bosch and Vedral if either of them had sex with the woman.

Vedral told them that he had, but she asked him to stop. Kelsay, Schwab and Hickey all testified that Vedral was surprised to learn that the woman was planning to file charges.

The prosecution is expected to conclude its case this morning, though most of the principal witnesses have already testified. The defense will start its case this afternoon.
