

Dant practices at least six hours a day, working mainly with her instructor, Lisa Fusillo. She is preparing for her senior dance thesis this spring.

Dancer leaps toward dream

Werner said Dant's determination keeps the team strong.

"There are days when you don't feel like moving, and I'm glad we're in class together," Werner said. "Megan is a self-driven person. We keep each other going."

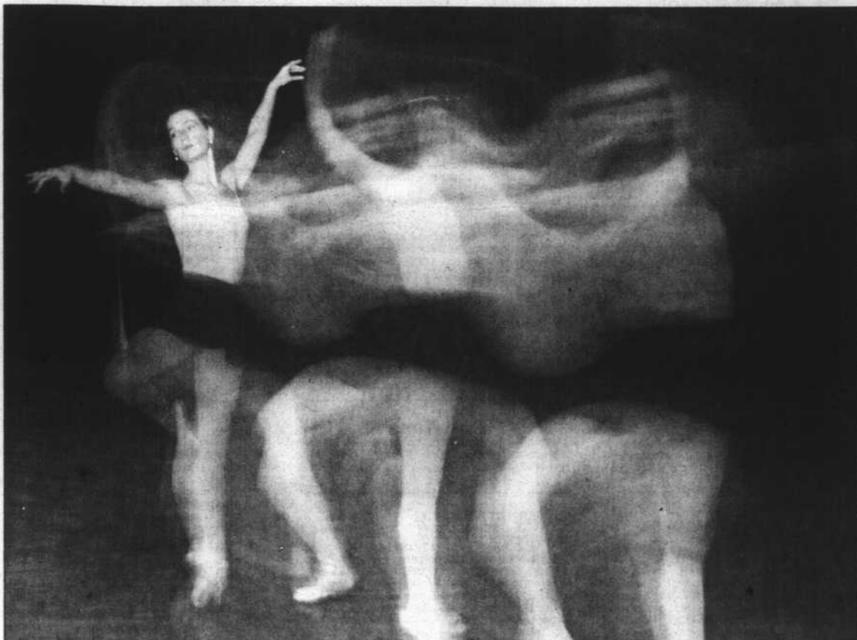

Instead of heading for the spotlights of New York or Hollywood after graduation, Dant said she would probably move to Oregon, where her parents live.

"I wouldn't want to go to New York because everybody's trying to do what I'm doing. And in California, I would just be another Hollywood look-alike," Dant said. "But in the northwest, there are new companies and new money that need people like me."

Dant said fame might come in time for her career as a dancer, but only time would tell.

"I see a lot of my friends from North Carolina in magazines," she said. "But one day, when I was driving my car, it just hit me that I wasn't going to Senior dance major Megan Dant has been dancing for 17 years since she was 4-years-old and saw the Tulsa ballet perform "Cinderella." She studies both modern dance and classical ballet.

be famous. It just wasn't going to happen. But maybe someday. You never know."

But those who know Megan are sure that her time in the spotlight is not far away.

Fusillo said of Dant: "She is a wonderful, wonderful person and above all, a wonderful artist and beautiful dancer. Megan doesn't have to step on other people's toes to get ahead. She has strength of character, as well as body."

Werner agreed that Dant's integrity and dedication would take her far, no matter where she is.

"It's hard to say exactly what Megan will be doing," she said, "but there is a place for her in the dance world."
