four event finals and placed third in vault with a score 8.950. NU will receive additional help this weekend from senior co-captain Grant Clinton. Clinton, recovering from torn cartilage in his knee, has not competed this season but is expected to compete in the rings, horizontal bar and parallel bar this weekend. Leading the Huskers is senior co-captain Jason Hardabura, who will compete in the all-around. In his first competition in nearly a year, Hardabura won the all-around title at the Rocky Mountain Open with a score of 51.708, the country's fifth-highest total so far this season. Competition begins at 7 p.m. today at UC-Santa Barbara.

NU takes on small schools after spring practice woes

BY DIRK CHATELAIN

When the Nebraska track teams compete in Saturday's Prairie Wolves Invitational, it will be difficult not to look ahead to next weekend. The Big 12 Indoors come to Lincoln Feb. 23-24. Instead of facing off with the best the Big 12 has to offer, tomorrow's meet is against mostly Division II and III schools. Nebraska Coach Gary Pepin said the competition isn't a concern. "We're trying to do a lot of things in this meet," Pepin said. "It's an opportunity for some to show the coaches what they can do and still make the team. It's a chance to get in another meet for those whose season started late, and some people were still trying to determine what events they're going to be in." Nebraska, whose teams are both rated in the top five in the USTCA track rankings, has been hindered by the weather and the lack of indoor facilities this spring. "We're not as far along in some events as I hoped we would be," Pepin said. "We're still scrambling to catch up... especially in the technique events." One NU star who doesn't seem to be struggling is junior high jumper Shaun Kologinczak. The All-American finished third at last week's Tyson Invitational with a leap of 7-2 1/2. It was Kologinczak's highest of the season. Saturday's meet will be the second that the Huskers have hosted this season. The competition begins at 11 a.m. Running events get underway at noon.

worried about it," he said. NU's early game plan against KSU was to establish its post play with Friend down low. Nebraska held a 38-18 advantage in points in the paint. "We wanted to get some early baskets inside, and that opened up a lot for us on the outside and enabled us to drive the lane," said Rodney Fields, who said to expect much of the same approach against Colorado. While the renewed effort in the post opened up lanes for Fields and the other guards to drive, it also opened up passing lanes, leading to a wealth of unselfish play and 25 assists. "I've been here for two years, and I can't remember the last time we had 25 assists," Fields said. Husker Notes: Another native Nebraskan has agreed to walk on for the Huskers next season. Tony Nebraska hasn't won two straight games since late December. Wilbrand, a 6-foot-10, 245-pound center from Alliance, has accepted a spot on next year's team without a scholarship. Wilbrand, who averages 16.5 points, 11 rebounds and seven blocked shots for 17-1 Alliance, a class B school, said Collier's effort to get in-state talent intrigued him.
