"It is really pitiful," says a senior, "to see those preps and freshmen trying to navigate up that triple plank walk, but wait till they've been here a year or two and they will get on to it."

A zoology student complains that the Museum has all been crowded up in the third story so that the main part may be used as a geological store-room. Comment is unnecessary.

Professor Sherman says it is better only to feel the influence of a higher ideal than it is to gain a lower one, therefore, everyone should try to get on the football team and glee club.

The members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon escorted their distinguished member, Hon. Wm. McKinley, to Omaha Thursday evening, where they gave him an informal reception at the Millard.

At a certain boarding club:
Mr. B.—So you've come back here to eat again?
Mr. A.—Yes, stayed away till I got well, then thought I'd come back and try it again.

There are a few important changes in the organization of the battalion, for instance, we have a new corps of captains, lieutenants, sergeants, and corporals, besides numerous additions to our privates' ranks.

"Shorty" Leinhoff is no longer the longest man in the battalion and Burgett of Nebraska city, is the shortest. There was some rivalry at first between Romeo and Burgett for the tail end, but the commandant impartially gave the position to "Stub."

Misses Ferguson and Evans of St. Louis, have opened a dancing school in the Lansing dancing hall for ladies, gentlemen, misses and masters. These ladies come highly recommended by Mr. Jacob Mohler of St. Louis, and have taught for three years in Missouri State University, Columbia University, Missouri Military Academy, at Mexico, Mo.; also in Galveston, Tex. Owing to some misunderstanding the Chancellor had given the drill hall to the Glee Club examination so there was no drill. On Thursday night, however, the company will meet for drill and work will be commenced at once.

The number of students who will attend the University this year is not yet completed. Nearly every day one or two new students arrive. Certainly the draymen, who are kept busy hauling students' baggage do not suffer from the hard times. One drayman was heard to remark that he could always tell a student's trunk when he lifted it, as the books which it contained generally weighed more for the amount of space they occupied than anything else.

The prospect for a successful year for the art department is very encouraging. The department has more than twice as many students as ever before, all of whom are taking extraordinary interest in the work. Beginners are required to make more preparation in drawing than ever before. Some of the important additions for this year are china painting and the organization of a sketch club, which can be entered free of charge by all. The director, Miss Parker, is highly pleased with the way the work is beginning.
