The last chance to see a foot ball game on the home grounds this year, will be given to the public tomorrow at 3 o'clock, and every one is urged to be present with the largest sized tin horn obtainable and a brass lined yelling apparatus. It is to be regretted that at least one of the inter-state games was not scheduled to be played at home, yet the outlook was so dark at the beginning of the season, that this seemed very favorable for the finances of the association. Since the exhibition of foot ball playing given last Saturday, opinion has changed somewhat, as everywhere the regret is heard, that only one more game is to be played here. There is no doubt, but that favorable weather will bring out 2,000 people to the game Saturday, if it is properly advertised about town. The team has aroused the interest of every Lincoln citizen, since it has been demonstrated, that in spite of being financially handicapped, it will be able to make an interesting fight for the pennant. The boys are certainly to be congratulated upon the fine showing they have made.

As is well known the association went deeply into the "hole" last year. The proceeds of tomorrow's game are to be used in filling up the said hole, so if you expect to spend a half dollar between now and some future date, don't meditate long over the fact, but join the crowd that will wend its way to the M street park tomorrow, and get more keen enjoyment than you have yet experienced in two hours time.

The chancellor's bulletin of Wednesday morning, respecting the holding of political rallies in the university should be noted carefully by every member of these organizations. There is no objection to the formation of these clubs. They should be encouraged but their membership should be confined wholly to students. When the privilege is given to hold meetings in university rooms, they are not to be thrown open to the public. They must be reserved strictly for the use of students. By advertising "public invited" the officers of these clubs, violate the privileges so courteously bestowed.

SUPPOSE all students try, say for one week, the effect of entering the chapel quietly and listening to the music, rather than trying to drown the music with talking. Or if this is too hard, try keeping the voice within a whisper. Suppose, now. Now suppose again, if you are one of the first ones to enter, that instead of sitting on the seat next the aisle, you select a middle seat. This will cause less inconvenience to those who come in later.

If our team wins the pennant this year it will be under great difficulties, chief among them is the way they are treated in regard to room. Their clothes are thrown together in a large mass and a general scramble takes place every day for suits, and it is often the case that the first eleven fellows cannot come out on account of having no suit. The lockers are taken for other purposes, the bath rooms for other purposes, while the foot ball boys work like dogs to maintain the honor of the school without a particle of encouragement from any source.

It is understood that immediately after the legislators have been elected, the campaign committee is to seize them violently, and lead them to the east door of the University hall, via the triple plank walk. It is thought that this will be a sufficient argument to convince the most close fist ed legislator of the need of this institution for an appropriation.

Law Notes.

The local enrollment at present is seventy-two.

Judge Reese, dean of the university law college, is making a determined effort to establish a post graduate course of study in the law department. Heretofore the post graduate course has existed only on paper. If the dean succeeds in his undertaking it will be indisputable evidence that the university law college will soon be able to maintain the high standing which it should among the law schools of the country. Wonders cannot be accomplished in a day or even in a year, but with the progress already made to encourage them, everyone has good reason to be sanguine for the future.

The Maxwell Club, holding its meetings every Saturday night, has started in this year somewhat later than the other debating clubs of the university on account of the law college opening a week or so later. Nevertheless they have a splendid attendance both from juniors and seniors. The gratifying prospect of a year of fruitful work makes everyone full of enthusiasm and ready to work. The Maxwell club is distinctly the debating society of the university; not only because it has among its members some of the ablest debaters of the school, but because its members are all students whose lives are intended to be spent as lawyers, and as such will make debating largely their future business.

Tennis Club Re-organizes.

The Tennis association, has been holding several meetings lately, and the re-organization of the club has been begun. Hereafter, any one playing on the university tennis courts may be called upon to show his receipt for membership, and if he can not do it he will be politely requested to cease firing. At a meeting of the executive committee last week, it was decided to repair the courts, by having a clay surface put on them. New nets will be purchased and other improvements made. No one is considered a member who has not yet paid the initiation fee of fifty cents and the assessment of one dollar. At this time, the enrollment is very small but it is thought that the near future will witness a movement among the enthusiasts which will result in an overflowing membership.

Good Lecturers to Speak.

The special lecture course which was made a feature last year by the Chancellor is to be continued this term. Chancellor McDowell of the University of Denver is the first one booked to address the students. He will be with us Oct. 2nd, one week from today. On the 20th of November, Major Elija Halford will address the law students, taking for his subject, the Behring Sea Commission. The major was a member of this body, which fact will make his talk the more interesting.

Omaha and Ashland Scrap.

The Ashland-Omaha high school foot ball game, scheduled to be played last Saturday at Omaha has been declared off, owing to the refusal of the latter to play against blacksmiths, merchants, et al. It seems that the Ashland team wanted to play three men, who, it was alleged, were simply posing at the Ashland high school. The high school championship practically hinges upon a game between these two teams, and both are disputing every point. Frank Crawford has been coaching the Omaha boys and declares their ability to beat Ashland or any other high school team. The trouble between the two teams may yet be settled and the game come off, which will be more than interesting.

No Cane Rush for '98.

The class of '98 met last Friday to decide some important business. The matter of challenging the Sophs. to a cane rush, which was laid on the table at the last meeting, was again brought up by a few pugnaciously inclined individuals, but was promptly voted down by the quieter portion.

It was thought necessary to have a class pin and Pierson, Smith, and Miss Chappell were appointed as a committee to look into the matter of selecting one.

It was also decided to hold the Freshman social Thursday evening in Union hall.
