Students can't get better meals for $2.25 than McGuffey and Allen put up, at 1507 P St.

The only horse in active operation in the uni. is the horse used to run the buzz saw down at the carpenter shop.

The geology classes are interested at present in making artificial glaciers by putting broken ice in a big press and squeezing it till it flows.

The Unions evidently still have an artist with them despite the departure of Gus Chapman, if one may judge from their programs in the hall.

Hon. C. H. Marple, of Omaha, an ex-regent, will address the students, or rather the republican students, in chapel Saturday evening. All are invited.

A brother of L. C. Smith will be in the city Friday from that disreputable town of Council Bluffs; but it's all right since he comes for the ball game.

Prof. Bruner goes to Washington, D. C., next month to read a paper before the scientific convention there. While he is in the east he will visit some large museums in order to classify a number of insects. The fact that Prof. Bruner is a rising entomologist is recognized as far away as Washington.

His suit—he bought it at

and it was right.

The class in Journalism is doing its best to help the Uni. by writing special articles to the country press about the crowded condition of affairs here.

The Palladians have ordered some new pictures to be framed to adorn their walls. Better have your curtains washed too, Pals, as soon as possible.

Some people like to write funny things to put on the bulletin board. One man had an illustration wherein was depicted a certain person in the act of stealing his hat.

The "Gymnasium Memoranda" issued by the physical department is a model of neatness and contains some pointed truths that even students should read and obey.

The Mandolin club met last week for the purpose of organizing a new club for this year. Quite a number were present and a club as good if not better than last year's will be formed.

The Unions are steadily advancing. Last Friday they elected four new members. They have nearly a dozen prospective members—on probation, as it were. Lookout for quality not quantity.

Have you heard about the girls' debating club and criminal law court. Just wait till the girls bring Pullman up before their judges for trial. He'll receive pretty rough usage, we assure you.

In the leading scientific paper of England, the work of the sem. bot. of the U. of N. was very favorably commented upon and that of Messrs. Clements, Pound and Rydberg was especially mentioned.

At a practice foot ball game Tuesday evening, Harry Frank had the third finger of his left hand broken. It is feared that when it heals he will not be able to straighten it. It has not kept him off the field however.

The University Debating Association met Tuesday afternoon at 5 p.m. in Union Hall. The resignation of President C. R. Welden was read and accepted. H. W. Quaintance was elected to fill the vacancy. After a report on the progress of the debates by the secretary the meeting adjourned.

The freshman history class feels especially honored by the presence of their august seniors. They are there to frighten the preps into good behavior and to show them what an exceedingly great amount of work they can't copy into their note books in the required eight hours. It's not brain, but the quick penman that wins the day. Nit!

A cosy little room which is advancing into popular favor with university students is the apartment in the Library building known as Barrett's Retreat. It is fitted up with all modern conveniences and still has the subtle charm of being the most delightful study-room connected with the university.

If one has the good luck to be a favorite with the professor he may be invited into this sanctum where he may enjoy blissful quietude among books and flowers which is extremely soothing.

The Chancellor will talk to the students of the conservatory of music this afternoon regarding the relation of that academy to their other sources of musical education. It is not generally known that the conservatory is ready to take pupils at any stage of advancement, and to allow them to pursue a higher course in the same way that a pupil passes from a high school to the university. The Chancellor will dwell upon this point. All are urged to invite their friends to inspect the new building.

A reception was given the Grinnell foot ball players by the conservatory girls who came from Iowa college when Prof. Kimball left there. The parlors of the conservatory were tastily decorated in the colors of both colleges. An adjournment was taken at 10 o'clock to Sutton & Hollowbush's ice cream parlors, when delicate refreshments were served.

Tuesday evening several of the alumni of the university, among them Sam Cox, Judge Field, and Attorney Holmes met in the chancellor's office to devise ways and means to make known the crowded condition of the college. They arrived at one conclusion, that was, that the university was pretty well crowded.

New books are continually coming in for the library, and the need of more room for them is severely felt. A large box of German books purchased by Prof. Fling while in Europe last summer, Bartlett's Concordances of Shakespeare, books on American History, Political Economy, English and Psychology are among the latest received.

A zoological club will soon be organized under the guidance of Prof. Ward. The zoology department is rapidly growing and is attracting a great deal of attention outside of Lincoln. (The subjects discussed also attract attention in the basement of Nebraska hall. What did Hail do with that poor canine last week?)

The senior boys have been having several meetings lately, and have indulged in much worry over their canes. They want them all alike of course, but each fellow wants the size that will fit his own mouth.

The department of zoology has received about twenty new dissecting lenses which were patterned by Prof. Ward. They are a great improvement on anything heretofore secured for that purpose.

Prof. Clark is to have an "awkward squad." The Profs. have formed a gymnasium class which will be under his direction.

President A. N. Norton and wife from the State Normal School, were present at the Chancellor's reception Saturday night.

It is noticed that one of the fair-haired co-eds is sporting an animal of the bovine species for a watch charm.
