During Capt. Weeks' absence, Lieut. Forbes is drilling the awkward of Co. A.

The most complete line of driving caps will be found at the Ewing Clothing Co.

When the lights went out: "Say, don't light that gas; this time goes on my history."

The local editor promised that he would say nothing about that ride to West Lincoln.

A lively foot ball game is anticipated between the Junior laws and Junior college teams.

Students should be very sure that they have a vacant period before taking buggy rides.

Miller & Paine have now settled in their new store where they are now prepared for business.

We give a free ticket to the Wilbur Opera Co. with every purchase. A. Kroner, 939 O street.

We are headquarters for good underwear, from 33 cents per garment to $5 per suit. Ewing Clothing Co.

Miss Emma Gregory left for Galveston, Texas, this morning to visit her father, who is suffering from a broken leg.

Heard in Hygiene: Prof. C. "Mr. Kemp, what is the composition of the air?" Mr. K. "Do you mean in the morning?"

The Ewing Clothing Co. received another invoice of the very latest styles in overcoats. They are up to date. Step in and see them.

Mr. Herbert Senter, of the class of '93, is here visiting friends. He leaves in a few weeks for Heidelberg, Germany, where he will continue his study in chemistry.

James A. Barkley, who graduated from the electrical engineering department in '92, is mentioned quite prominently in an article on Philadelphia's street railway system, contained in the last issue of the New York Electrical World. He is now with the Philadelphia Traction company.

His overcoat—he bought it at and it was right.

When she goes home at 12 M. he goes with her, and when she stays 'till one, the other he goes with her.

A senior girl has been heard to remark that Capt. Elliot looks too sweet for anything in his new uniform.

W. V. H. "Fizz — — B-r-r!!! sput!!! Who in the name of Jefferson put the soap in that tin cup???"

Go to Mrs. Gosper's, 1114 O st. to look at millinery and at the same time have your hair dressed in latest style.

Carlisle Tucker got quite a stiff little roast in the State Journal last week. But he is getting used to those little things.

Latest novelties in men's furnishing goods—10 per cent discount to students—Kroner, the shirt man, 939 O street.

The detachment in athletic gymnastics has gotten to the point where they can do 6,000 circles without making them sore.

Tribly very likely did not buy underwear of Herpolsheimer & Co., but nearly every intelligent person in this community does.

There will be a large number of the university students go to Omaha, Thanksgiving. Let every man in school take a tin horn and a co-ed.

Mr. Senter has raised an elegant mustache which is one of the entrance requirements in Germany. He will probably come back a full fledged Prof.

The big sale of underwear for men, women, and children now in progress at Herpolsheimer & Co. Prices a mere bagatelle as compared with qualities.

The chancellor spoke at Peru Thursday evening, he being the first speaker in a course of lectures which has been determined upon at the state normal school.

The tennis association expects to hold their fall tournament in a short time. All players desiring to enter must join the association at once and pay their dues, for only paid-up members are permitted to use the courts. This tournament undoubtedly will bring out the new material in the tennis line.

Some additional boxes from the Morrill zoological expedition have been received from Custer, S. D. Others are expected by every train, from Deadwood, and other cities. These boxes contain a good many specimens for the high schools of the state. They will be distributed as rapidly as they can be labeled and sent out.

The class in journalism has been giving attention to learning the whereabouts and nature of the most important foreign newspapers. The domestic press will be taken up when this part of the subject is finished.

The Y. M. C. A. has been furnishing its new room during the past week. An elegant couch and four rocking chairs were purchased. These improvements make the room look very homelike. Any one wishing to study in the room during the afternoon is cordially welcomed.

The freshman boys held a meeting yesterday afternoon at which it was decided to organize a class team. Ed Mair was elected manager and Sergeant captain. There was a good deal of enthusiasm displayed and the boys are loud in their declaration that they will beat everything in the college and all it can find outside.

At the business meeting of the Political Economy Club last Wednesday evening, the following new members were voted in. Mrs. W. G. Taylor, Mrs. L. J. Abbot, W. H. Forsyth, Ned Abbot, R. P. Teele, McGuire, and Leavitt. At the next open meeting of the club, Chancellor Canfield will deliver a lecture on "Banking".

The ladies of the faculty met at the home of Mrs. Canfield last Tuesday afternoon. A club, to be known as the N. S. U. Current Event Club was formed. The club has a three fold object: to promote social life at the university, especially among the students; to increase sociability among the members of the faculty, and to hold a semi-monthly program discussing current events. The enthusiasm with which the ladies enter into this new organization guarantees success. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Bessey, two weeks from last Tuesday.

Probably the most prominent among the absentees from the university this year is George Letson. Indeed, no one is more greatly missed by the students in general. Undoubtedly he was the best known man in the college. Everybody knew him and all who knew him liked him. Whenever a young lady could find no one else to "josh" with, George could be relied upon, and whenever a young man was struck by a wild scheme, the young man at once sought out George, and he was not hard to find, for he went everywhere and with everybody. While George is not in school, yet he is in Lincoln and very often comes in touch with those whom he loves. He is at present following out the trade of a hardware man, and it is hoped by all, that things will be so arranged as to permit Mr. Letson to be with us next year.
