

THE SECOND ELEVEN.

Oury, age twenty-three, weight 170, height 5 feet 11½ inches, played half-back for the champion Omaha High school team. He has played left tackle for two successive years on the 'varsity, which is without doubt his proper place. When there was no other sure gain he could be depended upon to open a hole for the backs. He is almost sure of a gain of a few yards either by bucking the line or running the ends, and this season carried the ball a great deal. He is the most conscientious trainer in the team, and always comes out of a game as fresh as he went in. Through the whole season's work he has not had occasion to call time.

Flippin, age twenty-five, weight 185, height 5 feet 11 inches, has gained an enviable reputation for himself in the four years he has played half-back. He has great physical strength and endurance, but is not so swift and so is not as great a success at end runs as at blocking or bucking the line. His success at the latter is due to a great extent to the holes made for him. His reputation has gone abroad, and the sight of him always strikes terror to his opponents. He is undoubtedly one of the greatest and most well known half-backs in the west.

Shue comes from the southern part of the state. He is five feet nine inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and is twenty-four years old. He is of stocky build, and breaks up interference in fine shape. By a little practice he would make one of the best end rushes in the country.

Wiggins, weight 145, age 29, height 5 feet 10 inches, is undoubtedly the best tackler on the team. He has been unfortunate this year in being injured several times, but has put up a splendid game whenever he has played. He carries the ball behind a block from his position at end in good shape, and could be made into a fine half-back. He breaks up interference well, and gets down the field on a punt in fine style.

Hayward, height 6 feet, weight 168, age 17, is the "kid" full-back of the team, and gives promise of being a phenom in that position. He played end on the Nebraska City high school team where he learned to tackle low and hard. He punts as well as any man on the team, often sending the ball from forty to sixty yards. He plays a gritty game, bucking the line hard. He is a safe man to play back, as no one ever passes him. He gets into the blocking well.

Wilson, height 5 feet 10 inches, weight 185, age 23, comes from Nebraska City. He had his initial experience in foot ball last year, playing left guard on the varsity, which position he again filled this year with more than ordinary skill. He breaks through well, often tackling the runner behind the line. He is good at making holes. His strongest point, however, is his blocking. It is hard to find a guard who gets into the interference so well as Willy Wilson.
