

The team last year was composed of men, no two of whom had the same kind of suits. A collection had to be taken each day in order to buy balls, and it was generally the players themselves who furnished the money.

An effort will be made to secure the Armory one hour each day, during which time the team and candidates may have its exclusive use for indoor practice. The season is not long as it is, and the team should be in the best of shape the first day the weather will permit them to practice outside. But the team, alone and unassisted, can do nothing. They must have a decent field, suitable suits, and above all a half-dozen base balls with which to practice. This material should be furnished before the season opens in order to obtain any results at all.

Arrangements have been almost completed for a southern trip to play the Kansas and Missouri state universities on their home grounds. An effort will be made to play Iowa, Minnesota, and Grinnell on their grounds, and several teams in Nebraska are anxious to meet us either in Lincoln or in their own towns. A western tour to Butte and Salt Lake City could be arranged, and probably will be. It would be no trouble to arrange plenty of games both in Lincoln and abroad.

There is some talk of a Western Inter-Collegiate base ball association, composed of the same states as are in the foot ball leagues.

If we wish to have a good team let every man who plays ball come out and practice, and those who do not can assist materially in more ways than one. The team cannot in itself do anything, but with the assistance of the student body can be made the best team in the west.

At a meeting of the team which was held December 13th, Harvey Heald was unanimously elected captain.
