You want to get a holiday NEBRASKAN before they are all gone.

AN able contemporary informs us that "Professor Wilson is getting out an addition to Virgil." It is the earnest wish of the second preps that he will not make the thirteenth and following books harder than the first twelve.

WE have on hand several copies of the holiday number which we are desirous of getting rid of as soon as possible. There will be no Annual published this year, but while we do not consider this issue in any way a rival to the Sombrero, still it remains the only publication worthy to be retained as a memento of your collegelife for the year '94-5. When those on hand are gone, they cannot be reproduced and it behooves every one to secure a copy as soon as possible.

THE NEBRASKAN asks for more liberal contributions from the student body. THE NEBRASKAN is here for your benefit, and we want you to use its columns and space to the best advantage. Write us something of some sort or other. Let it be some local news item or literary production. If you happen to crack a legitimate "joke" jot it down and hand it in. We will not take oath that everything is published which we receive, but anything that is worthy will receive due attention. Better try a few times and see what you can do.

THE date of our next field day is to be set at the next meeting of the Athletic Association. It seems to be the general desire of those who intend to enter the contests that a later date be decided upon than that of last year. The objection is that sufficient time was not given for training, as the weather would not permit, until late in the season. The last Saturday before Decoration day has been favorably spoken of as the proper time to hold the field day contests. This will undoubtedly tend to make the exhibition of much more interest, and the events a little more spirited.

THE imputation of carelessness or indifference on the part of the University authorities in the matter of meddling with students' property, which has been made by certain parties not responsible for their actions, is utterly and totally without foundation, as many students know, to their cost. The authorities have been constantly active and very active along this line, but they complain that the greatest obstacle with which they have to contend is the unwillingness of the students to cooperate with them in detecting the guilty parties, and an unwillingness on the part of many to combine in a very energetic protest against any definite action being taken when a friend or classmate happens to be detected.

If the students of the University will with one consent and heartily unite in securing information, and in other ways assist the authorities; if they themselves will insist that the student found meddling with the property of another shall be dismissed, no matter what his excuse may be, the whole trouble will cease in a single week.

This is the surest and quickest way to remedy the evil. We have no use whatever for sneaks at this university. If the trouble lies with the students we cannot blame the authorities for it. THE NEBRASKAN will not hesitate in giving the full name of any one caught in this disreputable business. If they have a regard for public opinion let them beware!

The meeting of the athletic association which is called for next week, should be attended by every loyal student of the university. Some very important measures are to be considered which should require the careful attention of every one. The main object of the meeting will be to provide some means to prevent "college politics" from entering into the local elections. Every manly student knows that some such idea should be adopted. In its issue of December 7th, THE NEBRASKAN published as "suggestions" a number of rules which it is thought would bring about the required result. We think the adoption of these would entirely remedy the present evils.

The one measure which has been proposed, is not adequate to bring about the required result.

It would indeed be a great improvement, but while we are about the matter, it may just as well be done right. A board composed of nine members will be an unwieldy body. They will never be able to get together, and it is hardly probable that three alumni can be found who will take enough interest in athletics to be present at a meeting of the board.

While it is the general opinion that the measure is a good one still that of adopting those rules as published is considered better. These "suggestions" were culled from the constitutions of the various athletic clubs of such institutions as Yale, Harvard, University of Michigan and others. They represent the meat of the rules in vogue at those places. Many experiments have been tried by all colleges throughout the United States, and the result was the adoption of some such a code of rules. There may be some objectionable clauses in these, which can be stricken out. There may be alterations and additions that can be made, but as a whole, these rules are aptly fitted to the condition of athletics at this university. Indeed they were prepared only after much careful thought and are considered peculiarly fitted for our state of affairs.

THE magnificent response of the students and faculty of the university to the appeal of the western sufferers for aid is certainly very gratifying. A large furniture van was required to haul away the clothing contributed. In addition to this, $295, has been collected and placed at the disposal of the state relief committee.

This money will be used to purchase fuel, feed, and whatever is needed most to provide for the needs of the sufferers. By placing it in the hands of the state relief committee not only will free transportation be obtained and a great discount in buying, but the relief will be sent to those points where it is most needed and will be distributed to those persons to whom it should go.

The name of the senders will accompany each carload, so the people of western Nebraska will know that the students of their state university sympathize with them and gladly send them what aid they are able.

The readiness with which the students responded when the papers were passed, showed that they were interested and gave, not because they felt it an obligation and duty, but because they felt it a privilege to lend a helping hand to someone weaker and poorer than themselves.

Almost every one gave something. One very noticeable fact was that the contributions of the girls was much larger than those of the boys. There must have been some reason for this. Is it a fact that the girls are more sympathetic, warmer hearted, and generous? Perhaps their allowances are larger and their expenditures smaller. This might be an interesting question for Dr. Wolfe's class in psychology.

The Junior Prom.

The class of '96, in face of the fact that the Annual was no go this year, are making very extensive preparations for the coming Promenade, and promise that this event will be the greatest of the university. The pious senior class of '95 originated and founded the "Prom" and '96 is going to do the right thing this year. The committee on the hop comprised the following: McLucas, Sedgwick and Miss Whiting. After the great efforts of Mr. McLucas and a careful survey of the situation it was decided to give the ball in the Lincoln hotel upon Thursday evening February 14th. The sale of tickets will be strictly to university students and those connected with the college. Since the Lincoln hotel will not admit of more than seventy five couples dancing and since from between one hundred and fifty to two hundred dollars will be expended upon the affair, two dollars will be charged for a ticket.

Friday the original committee was enlarged and now embraces the chairman V. R. McLucas, Pillsbury, Brown, Sedgwick, Wilson, Adams, Puls, Reed, Abbott, Miss Webster, Miss Harley, Miss Ricketts, Miss Whiting and Miss Taylor.

From the general committee were selected for the committee on program, Adams, Wilson, Miss Webster, Miss Ricketts and Miss Taylor. For the committee on decorations, Miss Harley, Pillsbury and Brown, for the committee on reception, Sedgwick, Puls and Miss Whiting; for committee on tickets, McLucas, Sedgwick and Reed. Tickets may be obtained from this last committee on Wednesday the 30th, as only seventy-five tickets will be sold the quicker they are obtained the better.
