

THE GLEE CLUB.

The Glee Club is at work again, and under manager Reese, who directed them so successfully last year, they are rapidly coming to the front. According to Manager Reese and the old members of the club, the report about the dearth of first tenors is all a fable. It seems that this is merely an excuse given by the former director.

The material is very well chosen this year and the club will be as good, if not better, than the excellent one of last year. Their first appearance will be at the Charter Day exercises, where they will sing some of their new songs. Among the numerous new songs this year is to be an original medley arranged by Harry Reese. In the language of the club it is said to be a "buster." Reese is still manager and Fred Cooley assistant manager, the same as last year. The other officers have not been chosen.

A young man giving his name as A. J. Stearns came into the "Co-op," Monday, February 4, and ordered the following books: Roman History, English Literature, Baker's Physics, History cover and outlines, Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, Greenleaf on Evidence, Tiederman on Real Property, Cooley on Torts, Parsons on Partnership, May's Criminal Law, Bigelow's Bill, Schouler's Bailments, Blackstone's Law Dictionary, Stephen's on Pleadings, in all amounting to about $80. He presented a check on an Omaha bank for $30, asking to be allowed to pay $15 on his order, and that the change be returned to him.

Oury, before giving him the change, telephoned the Omaha bank, which replied that no one of that name had a deposit there. When he returned to the store the man, Stearns, had departed, saying he would go upstairs and find out why Oury was so long. Nothing has been seen of him since and the thirty dollar check is now in possession of the Co-op. He gave as his reason for inquiring so many books, that he intended to take senior and junior law, and the regular academic course. He was given permission by Judge Reese to enter the senior law class and was present at one recitation. He was also present at one recitation of the junior class. He had not yet paid his fee at the steward's office.

It is thought his intention was to defraud some one, as he went into the steward's office first to pay his tuition, but could not get the attention of the "clerk."

Lieutenant Hinds has charge of the gallery practice and at present is instructing his squad in aiming.

Corporal Cooley has a new squad, consisting of one man, to drill in the setting up exercises. The new recruit is Mr. Joers, '98.

At the last meeting of the Political Economy club the following officers were elected:

President—P. J. Maguire.
Vice-President—Miss Stella Ducker.
Secretary—R. P. Teele.
Executive Committee—O. H. Martin, G. L. Town, E. McNeal.

The great interest manifested in Professor Sherman's lectures to the university class in St. Paul's Sunday school is manifested by the large and increasing attendance. This class is composed almost exclusively of university students, and now numbers eighty-five.

The old students of the University of Nebraska do not forget her and may be still useful in many ways. When the "University bill" was before the House, Randolph McNitt, a former student made one of the ablest and most telling speeches in favor of the bill.

The articles of Chancellor Canfield in the Forum and Harper's Weekly have attracted considerable attention. They have assisted in a large degree in placing Nebraska on a higher level among eastern people.

The Class of Junior Themes Thursday afternoon brought forth several papers, copies of which should be sent to our statesmen. For unless the theories proposed by the different philosophers of that class are adopted by the government the country will be in total ruin within the next two years.

"Dear Tim: I am sending you my coat by parcels post. I have cut off the buttons because it will make it lighter. You will find them in the breast pocket.—Yours, etc., Pat."—Ex.

It was observed that four men out of seven seated at a Library table were wearing glasses.

EXCHANGES.

Prof. G.—Miss B., what would you do to remedy a broken heart?

Miss B.—Bind up the fragments with a band of gold, sprinkle copiously with orange blossom water, and apply raw rice freely.—Ex.

"America has no standing army, I believe," said the foreigner.

It is clear you haven't spent much time in the street cars of this great country," replied the native.—Truth.

Prof. (in exam.)—Don't put more than one problem on one page.

Student (Freshman, of course)—What will you do if you can't get it all on one page?—Ex.

After church.—Mr. Smith (meekly)—"May I —"

Miss Helena—"Oh, certainly. I would be delighted to accept of your company." At last report Mr. Smith had not recovered.—Ex.

Professor (In Latin recitation.)—"Decline cornu."

Miss V.—"Cornu, corns."—Ex.

Student (reading Virgil): "And thrice I tried to throw my arms around her—that is as far as I got, professor."

Professor: "That was quite far enough; you may sit down."—Ex.

1st Senior—"I've got a scheme."

2d Senior—"Where did you get it?"

1st Senior—"Out of my head, of course."

2d Senior—"That's impossible; you can't get something from nothing."—Ex.

Young ladies who contemplate purchasing bicycles should harden their muscles in advance, by running the sewing machine or rocking the baby.—Ex.

Charlie—What makes the old cat howl so?

Walter—I guess you'd make a noise if you were all full of fiddle strings inside.—Ex.

"Can any boy here," asked the visitor, "give me an example of expansion by heat?"

"I can," said Tommy, "our dog's tongue is twice as long as it was last winter."

Charlotte—Oh, how slippery these rocks are! Take a good hold of my arm, John, and if I slip, hold on like grim death, but if you slip, for goodness sake let go.—Ex.
