Judging from the immense amount of poetry which is handed in to THE NEBRASKAN, poets must be increasing in a marvelous manner in this vicinity.

The University is well represented in the municipal reform. Professors Caldwell, Fossler, Bessey and others are taking prominent parts in the meetings of the "Civic Federation."

We have a new line of Trousers to show you. Call and see them.

It is said that Carl Marley distinguished himself Saturday evening—that it took two men to hold him. Hereafter Mr. Marley should confine himself to temperance lectures and the like.

William Reed Dunroy gave the second reading from his poems at Beatrice last night in the Y. M. C. A. hall. The program consisted of musical numbers and readings. He had a good house and was quite successful.

"Yes" said Manager Cooley as he took off his gay, cow-puncher's hat and mopped his marble brow with his blue silk muffer "this actors' life is demoralizing. I have skipped class more than Curley A—and he hasn't been for so long that he has forgotten how it feels."

H. F. Atherton, special representative for the sale of Estes & Lauriat's (Boston) subscription publication, is offering some choice bargains in the works of standard authors.

The Edwin Booth edition of Shakespeare is particularly fine, and his offer of fifty finely bound books—all standards—for $25 on, easy terms, will be accepted by all as a decided bargain.

"Yes" said Keene Abbott as he paid his last 15 cents to the cashier at Don's Cafe. "I walked clear home with her last night, and you know where that is, away out on 17th and nowhere. And, by gum, when I got all the way out there she wouldn't ask me to supper. I wonder what she supposed I walked out there for—my health, or to find the terminus of the street car line? You just wait till I walk out their again will you? I'm going back to Fremont where they treat a man right."

Athletic Notes.

The contestants in the boxing and wrestling matches are rapidly making themselves known and the public may expect a good exhibition on March 23rd, when it has been officially decided to hold the events.

When Carl Burnham signed his name nearly at the bottom of the list, donating five dollars to the base ball fund, the ingenious "Pack" immediately prepared a new sheet and transferred Carl's name to the top of it, as an example for others to follow.

Quite a sum has been pledged for the base ball team and it does not look like our boys will be sent away clothed in rags.

The Athletic association will not meet Saturday as announced, the committee on constitution is not yet prepared to report.

Wanted.

I want a good salesman to sell Estes & Lauriat's Editions de Luxe and Demi de Luxe, by subscription. Will give a salary for the unoccupied time of the right party. H. F. ATHERTON, 1041 O Street, Room 9, Lincoln, Neb.

Albert Watkins Lectures.

Mr. Albert Watkins addressed the Political Economy club Thursday evening on Civic Federation. He took up briefly the history of the city government of important American cities and showed the result of concentration of power in the hands of the mayor, the "one man" rule. Mr. Watkins especially emphasized the fact that as a people we have boasted too much of our prosperity and have made wealth the standard of success. As a result we have a rotten city government, much poorer than that of foreign cities. As long as commercial interests only are looked after, there can be little hope for any permanent improvement. There is great rejoicing over the triumph of the reform movement in New York, but this will probably only be temporary. As to the city of Lincoln, the speaker said the dominant party had such complete control that there could be but little hope of overcoming it at once. True municipal reform is of slow growth not radical. The "Civic Federation" promises much but it must be carefully managed and guarded or it will be undermined by its opponents.

Officers Elected.

Ever since the Varsity Rifles were organized last fall, the election of officers has been a duty which they have neglected to perform until last evening, when they got together and amid all kinds of harmony produced the following results: Captain, C. A. Elliot; First Lieut., Fred Clements; Second Lieut., R. S. Hiltner; First Sergeant, Dick Reed; Sergeants: Joe Beardsley, J. A. Canfield, Chas. Puls, and Tim McCarty; Corporals: C. A. Adams, C. E. Schwarts, Ralph Saxton, V. L. Pollard, and H. Oury.

A new committee to look into going to Memphis was appointed consisting of Clements, Ricketts, Town, Oury, and Powers.

A committee consisting of Sawyer, Adams, Town, Parmalee and Hiltner, was appointed to select a uniform.

The company now consists of sixty-eight men, and has every promise of a brilliant future.
