The class in public speaking has commenced debates. I tell you what, they are interesting.

Clearing out exams. were sprung in the departments of Greek and German this week.

Allen Fling came up Saturday from Nebraska City, where he is teaching in the high school.

J. B. Barnes visited his parental roof at Norfolk Saturday, returning Monday in time for classes.

The sophomore-freshman social will be held in the parlors of the Conservatory, November 9.

English students say that "daily themes" is the most interesting study in the department.

The Chancellor lectures before the teachers' county association of Fairbury tomorrow.

"It's English, you know"—that card board box which some fellows will persist in turning around.

June Abbott, of the law class of '96, is playing euphonium with Liberati's band in Ringling's circus.

James Carr has left school to accept a position in Kansas City. He expects to be in the Uni. next year.

It looks something like business to see about twenty-two fellows limping around and nursing bruises.

Take a look at our new fall suits.

Keene Abbott's crop of hair is in a flourishing condition. He hopes to be able to braid it by Thanksgiving.

Baker slugged the entire American class, right and left, in debate Monday and he was on the off side to boot.

Last Friday evening E. O. Jones lost a packet of money and papers. A suitable reward is offered for its return.

Clara Walsh, formerly a University student, has received a scholarship in the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts.

The faculty is discussing the advisability of establishing a classical library for the use of Greek and Latin students.

Rev. Taintor of Chicago and Rev. Harrison of Weeping Water Academy had charge of the chapel exercises Monday morning.

The Nebraska section of the American Chemical Society will meet in room four, chemical laboratory building the evening of the thirtieth.

Mr. Sheldon, manager of the football team, brought back as a souvenir of the trip, a large white flag with "Butte" printed on it in red letters.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. N. Snell entertained the Ashland students very enjoyably Saturday evening at their home on Thirty-third and Randolph.

Two of the fraternities are arranging for a foot ball game to be played on the campus in the near future. It will certainly be a good thing to witness.

Some of our friends who have been getting excused from drill to play football and have absented themselves from both are liable to get into trouble.

Will Lehman has been called to his home at Columbus by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his brother, who is not expected to live.

The question agitating the minds of the sedate seniors is "What'll we do to be felt." Well, they'd better do something startling before they graduate.

To judge by the colors seen on the girls this week, one might imagine that one of the fraternities believed in "co-fraternization" as well as co-education.

A rate of $1.10 has been secured on the railroads for the Missouri-Nebraska game at Omaha on November 2, and a large delegation of students is going down.

At their last meeting the faculty resolved not to have one of their number as secretary of the faculty, and hereafter this extra work will devolve upon Miss Tuttle.

The new library chairs provide a neat rack for one's hat, under the seat. Some of the young gentlemen, not aware of this fact, take up half a table with their tiles.

Two young men from Weeping Water, Neb., who are on their way to Africa to engage in missionary work, attended the noonday prayer meeting in the University Tuesday.

The three literary societies will present a rousing farce Saturday night in the chapel. "A Proposal Under Difficulties" should be seen by every student. Admission free.

The classes in English Literature 5 have commenced their library readings. As one hundred thirty-five take this work, the assistants in the library are expecting a little extra work.

The tennis courts seem to be used as a general dumping ground for the library building, and the workmen amuse themselves by throwing sections of water pipes through the nets.

The Palladian society has reached its membership limit. The society has taken in bright, energetic people this year. Their work this year will, no doubt show a marked improvement.

The following was the program at the meeting of the Sem. Bot. last Saturday: The Phylogeny of Lichens, Mr. Clements; The Vienna Propositions, Mr. Pound; On the Encoelaceae, Mr. Saunders.

"A Comparison of the Bones of the Anterior Limb of a Chiropter with those of a Marsupial and an Edentate," is the title of a scientific description with which Doc Everette has afflicted the English department.

Prof. and Mrs. Candy entertained the members of the University Sunday school class of the first Presbyterian church at their home last Saturday evening. Quite a number were present and everyone had an enjoyable time.

At the meeting of the Political Economy club Tuesday, H. E. Newbranch was elected secretary and J. H. McGuffey and P. J. Maquire members of the executive committee. The meetings of this club this year, as a rule, are open to members only. Many speakers, well posted on subjects of interest to students in economics prefer to speak to small audiences. These meetings will be of the nature of general discussions, in which all members participate. The subjects under discussion can be better developed in this manner than by a single address. A few public meetings will be held during the year.

LIBRARY NOTES.

Steam has been turned on in the library, much to the relief of students who read there. The radiators have been ornamented with a coat of gilt paint.

Work on the new library building is progressing rather slowly. But it looks now as if the recitation rooms might be ready for use by next week. This will be a great help, so far as classes and class-rooms are concerned.

The reading room will not be ready for nearly a month. If ever the offices were finished it would give some more room in the library; but there is still considerable work to be done.

The library appropriation is $2,000 short, so very few new books are being ordered.
