

EDWARD P. ELLIOTT, IMPERSONATOR.

Mr. Elliott will give his famous entertainment, "Hazel Kirke," at Wesleyan university Thursday evening, March 5. His work has been marvellously successful and elicited commendations from the best authorities. Fred Emerson Brooks says: "Mimicry would under such a performance be commonplace. Only inborn genius, assisted by her handmaid, art, could carry a performance to the perfection Mr. Elliott does."

The Dubuque, (Ia.) Times says: "Whilst at times irresistibly funny, there never was any time a vulgar word or action; a fact that in these days of buffoon comedy must commend the performance to popular favor."

George R. Wendling will give his greatest lecture in April. An eminent divine in the east says: "I would rather be the author of that lecture on 'The Man of Galilee' than of any human production that I have ever heard fall from the lips of any living man."

Joseph Cook: "It is brilliant and powerful—a fascination and an inspiration. The American lyceum can boast no greater orator than Wendling."

A ticket entitling the holder to both these lectures and a reserved seat costs only 50 cents. Single admission 35 cents. Special cars will be on O street at 7 o'clock to carry the crowd out and back.

The reserved seats are going fast; get yours before they are gone.

The Earth Trembled.

"Ah!"
The shock passed away and the world was quiet.
"Evidently!"
He gazed with wonder upon the curious formations of rock which the quake had revealed.

Teacher—The Lord made the earth in six days.

Tommy Smathers—What did he do nights?

Teacher—That is a funny question. Who can tell Tommy what God did at night?

Bobby Blathers—I can, teacher. He made Toledo, Ohio.

The Only Market.

Editor—I am sorry I can not take these jokes. They are all as old as Methuselah.

Inkling—But what am I to do with them? I must get rid of them somewhere.

Editor—Send them to Philadelphia as specimens of the coming humor of our great-grandchildren.

And No Fee Asked.

First Tramp—Where'r yer goin', Bill?

Second Tramp—Oh, I'm off ter one of them summer resorts around here.

First Tramp—What's the idea er doin' that?

Second Tramp—Well, yer see, I jist called on the doctor that lives 'cross the street there and he ordered me away.

Only Another Malapropism.

She was a very stout woman—stouter than stout women usually are. Battered with a basket, two parcels and a baby, she bucked her way to the only seat in the car. Already in half the seat was a slip of a girl, fresh and Maylike, as girls are apt to be nowadays.

The young girl had a big bunch of lilacs in her lap. The stout woman, with the eight-o'clock-in-the-morning perspiration, mopped some of it from her head and face. Then the lilacs caught her eye.

These lilacs looked deliciously cool and fresh, and the stout woman felt uncommonly warm. The situation was a fatal one and imperative. The stout woman felt impelled to do justice to it. She did. She looked at the flowers again, then at the young girl, then straight up into space and came out with, "My, ain't them lilacs fragrant!"—Philadelphia Call.

No Time Lost.

De Broker (briskly)—Mr. Silverplate in?

Clerk—No, sir.

De Broker—Well, when he comes, please tell him to send me another barrel of things suitable for wedding presents. The last lot is about gone. Ta, ta!—New York Weekly.

Uncomfortable Comfort.

Mrs. Wayupp—I sympathize with you deeply. It must be very painful to lose a fortune.

Mrs. Illick—It's terrible! When we were rich we used nothing but the most exquisite antique furniture, but it's all gone, every piece.

"The new furniture which you have here looks very comfortable."

"That's the trouble. It is so comfortable that I am continually reminded of the awful fact that it is not antique."

Delays Are Dangerous.

Lover—And so your mother does not believe in long engagements? I am delighted.

Miss De Broker—Yes, mamma says ever so many girls' fathers have failed during long engagements, and the poor things never got married at all.

A Last Resort.

Little Girl—I've glued my doll's hair on twice, and it came off both times.

Mother—Oh, well, try it again.

Little Girl—I'm goin' to. This time I'm goin' to mix the glue in a hair restorer bottle.—Good News.

Ought to Feel Cheap.

First Boy—I bet Mr. De Broker feels cheap.

Second Boy—Why?

First Boy—Last week he paid two hundred dollars for a dog, and to-day a two dollar dog licked him—Good News.

Old, but in a New Dress.

A country newspaper reports a brief colloquy between a woman and her lazy husband. She was busy, and the baby was crying, and the man, so far as appears, was saying nothing.

"John," she said, "I wish you would rock the baby."

"Oh, bother," was the answer, "why should I rock the baby?"

"Why, because he isn't very well and I have this mending to do. Besides half of him belongs to you, anyhow, and you ought to be willing to help take care of him."

"Well, half of him belongs to you, too, and you can rock your half and let my half holler."—Philadelphia Inquirer.
