say they know they're on the Burlington the moment they strike it. It is so smooth—so easy—so delightfully free from jolts and jars and sudden starts and stops.

Another proof of the truth of what we try to bring home to you every week in the year—that for right down solid comfort, the Burlington has no real competitor among the railroads of the west. Omaha, Peoria, Chicago St. Joseph, Kansas City, St. Louis, Denver and Deadwood are only a few of the points to which it will pay you to take the Burlington.

For time cards, tickets and information apply at E. and M. depot or city ticket office, corner of 10th and O streets.

The university of Texas has recently received the most valuable gift in its history, a library of 25,000 volumes valued at $100,000. The donor was Swaine Palmer, the Swedish vice-consul at Austin, Texas, who has spent 67 1/2 years in the collection of these books and has secured many of the rarest treasures of New York London and Edinburgh.

In the annual debate between Yale and Harvard, Yale was victorious. The debate was held at Cambridge and Harvard's defeat was the second one has sustained in the history of debates between the two universities. The question for debate was chosen by Harvard and Yale had the choice of sides. The question was: Resolved: That the United States should adopt definitely the single gold standard, and should decline to enter a bimetallic league, even if Great Britain, France and Germany should be willing to enter such a league. The Yale debaters took the negative and were greatly aided by William J. Bryan, who loaned them all of the literature and manuscript he had on the subject.

Mrs. Wellmeant—You say you have a sick wife and three small children—can't you find work? Beggar (sobbing)—It wouldn't do no good, lady, de kids aint old enough ter work yet.—Judge.

Senior—Can you tell why our college is such a learned place? Freshman—Certainly. The freshmen always bring a little learning here, and the seniors never take any away; hence it accumulates.—Wesleyan Argus.

She said "yes." She had made real all his dreams, his hopes that had seemed so vague, so unattainable. It all seemed too beautiful to be true, and he stood bewildered, as if afraid to move lest he should awake to find it a dream after all. Then he drew her to him, heart to heart, the world stood still. But why did his face fill with that look of disappointment—Why did his frame tremble as in a transport of keenest anguish—What thought had come to mar his great happiness? She had broken every cigar in his pocket—Harvard Lampoon.
