

LIEUT. JACKSON DEAD

The Call Comes Unexpectedly—Military Funeral Services Held in the Armory.

Lieutenant Alfred B. Jackson, commandant of cadets, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital Friday morning at 8 o'clock. The immediate cause of his death was appendicitis, for which an operation was performed last Tuesday. Up to Wednesday his condition was reported as very satisfactory, but then came a change for the worse, and he passed away yesterday morning.

The announcement of the death of Lieut. Jackson came as a great shock to the faculty and students of the University. While it was known that he was seriously ill, yet nobody was prepared for the sudden ending.

Major Fechet immediately wired to Washington the news of Lieut. Jackson's death and a new commandant of cadets will be appointed as soon as possible, which, however, may not be before a month. Meanwhile the regiment will be under the command of Major Weeks. The remains were removed from the hospital to an undertaking establishment and a guard of honor, consisting of two members of the University cadets, was placed over the body.

When the sad news was announced in chapel all classes for the rest of the day were suspended and the library closed.

The funeral was held to-day at 11 o'clock in the armory. Short services were held and the remains were taken to the station and sent to Boston, where the father of the deceased lived. The captains of the six companies of the regiment were pall bearers, and a detachment of cadets acted as an escort in the funeral procession. A biography of Lieutenant Jackson was published in the first issue of The Nebraskan for this year.

A REGIMENT APPEARS

The Cadet Battalion is No More—The Promotions.

At 5 o'clock on last Monday afternoon the cadet battalion ceased to be and the cadet regiment, composed of the First and Second battalions, entered upon its existence.

The cadets, from lieutenants down to privates, were sized up, divided into battalions, and assigned to separate companies, of which there are now six instead of four as formerly. Instead of having the companies extend east and west on the north and south sides of the armory, under the new order of things it is necessary to have the companies extend north and south across the armory floor, with the band in the center between the two battalions.

The awkward squads have at last disappeared and all the men will now drill in the companies. This is a welcome relief, both to the members of the awkward squads and the corporals whose duty it is to drill them. The first full company drill occurred last Wednesday afternoon, and the men showed up surprisingly well.

The following assignments were published on Wednesday afternoon:

Company A.—Captain, C. H. True; first lieutenant, R. W. Thatcher; second lieutenant, C. E. Barber; first sergeant, O. G. Whipple; second sergeant, J. T. Sumner; third sergeant, F. L. Rain; fourth sergeant, J. L. Kind; fifth sergeant, F. H. Keagle; corporals, G. W. Kline, J. L. Stoffer, A. S. Pearse, E. C. Woodruff, C. H. Mansfield, C. A. Franklin.

Clark; fourth sergeant, N. R. Miles; fifth sergeant, W. T. Strock; corporals, D. J. Adams, C. F. Atwood, A. J. Collett, J. C. Crawford, Paul Weeks.

The second eleven of this University and Wesleyan played a game on the campus Friday, November 12, which resulted in a victory for the University boys by a score of 8 to 0.

Nebraska was clearly superior to her opponents, although she had no easy job on her hands. Wesleyan came down with the intention of winning, and brought with them Bull, who played on the first eleven against the Varsity team. He was run into the game under an assumed name, and the name of Nelson was given instead of Bull for right half back. However, that availed them little, as Wesleyan was unable to hold Nebraska.

The first touchdown was made by a run of sixty yards by Green, another run by Drain and Harmon carried it over. Tukey failed a rather difficult goal. No more scoring was done the first half. The second half was simply a duplicate of the first and Harmon made another touchdown, from which no goal was kicked.

Green, Harmon, and Drain made the largest gains, while the tackling of Drain was of a high order. For Wesleyan Bull did most of the work and the rest of the men did not seem to get into the game. The line-up:

FRESHIES 6, SOPHS 12.

The freshman-sophomore foot ball game, which was played Wednesday afternoon on the campus, was the best exhibition of foot ball and most interesting of any of the previous inter-class series. The victory, 12 to 6 in favor of '00, was rather a surprise as many expected the freshmen would win easily, as such players as Hart, Drain and Tukey were in the line up. The sophs, however, had good material and were much heavier. They outplayed their opponents in the second half and the latter part of the first half. Their gains were made by bucking the line with an occasional end run or pick-up of the ball on a fumble. Collett made the longest run of the game, gaining over sixty yards. He got away after breaking through the line and had a clear field before him. He was neatly pulled down a few yards from the goal by.

The freshman took the ball on the kick-off and gradually worked it down the field for a touch down. Tukey kicked goal. It looked as if the sophs would be easy, but they braced up and tied the freshman score the same way before the close of the half, and Gordon kicked goal.

The freshman kicked off in the second half and the sophs got their beef to work and carried the ball nearly to the middle of the field, when Collett made his long run. It was easily pushed over for another touch down. Gordon kicked goal. The freshmen were unable to do anything for themselves during the remaining half, but Oury helped them out ten yds for allowing an off-side play. Time was called with the ball in the center of the field. The line up:

The juniors and seniors played off their tie game last Wednesday on the campus. The seniors were victorious by the score of 4 to 0. The sophmores and seniors will play off the class championship sometime before Thanksgiving.

The senior girls received the senior boys at the school of music last Saturday evening. Nearly every member of the class was present. The evening was passed in discussing the football victory, puzzles and games.

Next Sunday's Y. M. C. A. meeting will be led by J. E. Boyle. His subject will be "Following Christ." There will be a number of good short talks and some lively music.
