DR. NANSEN TO LECTURE.

As was announced last week Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the renowned scientist and Arctic explorer, is to lecture at the Oliver theatre January 26. He is filling one hundred nights in America and will go no further west than Denver. On account of his great achievements, high scientific standing and interesting personality, larger audiences have attended Dr. Nansen's lectures than those of any other man that has ever lectured for money in America.

The general public is just beginning to realize fully the wonderful achievements of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen and how much the world and science owes him. During the space of 280 days previous to the year of 1893 the combined efforts of all the Arctic expeditions succeeded in penetrating only 150 miles nearer the Pole. Dr. Nansen in three years pushed 200 miles beyond the farthest point then reached, covering the last 150 miles in the very short space of six weeks. His lectures, giving account of the expedition, possess not only the greatest scientific value, but a thrilling narrative of adventure, absorbing in interest for both old and young. His graphic pictures of life, in lands hitherto unknown to men, are startling, realistic, thrilling, and appeal to all classes. The seeming almost impossible feats of physical endurance are a marvel to the entire civilized world. The situations, awe-inspiring and grand, contemplating which the unanimous verdict is that he is absolutely "the hero of the century."

As a scientist, Dr. Nansen proposed a campaign for "attacking the Arctic fastness," the unconventional boldness of which provoked almost the universal opposition and ridicule of the scientific world. His theories were looked upon as the "wildest imaginings of a disordered brain, leading his followers to certain death," yet he has proven he was correct, and has accomplished all and more than he claimed possible, and all of this without the loss of a single life. He tells the story in an intelligent, manly way, free from any attempt at self aggrandizement, but with a dignity becoming in one who has accomplished so much. His wonderful power and superiority are felt by all, and one is constrained to say, "This is the stuff kings are made of."

Dr. Nansen's great European successes have been more than duplicated in America. The number of applications for time, propositions for receptions and dates booked, being far in excess of any other similar tour, and points to a most hearty welcome to the Arctic Viking when he comes to Lincoln. The prices are 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50.
