be seen by the students. It has one page devoted to the university, but aside from that much of interest to all Nebraska citizens, particularly young ones. Subscriptions are asked for at 5 cents a copy.

The peculiar individual who has been haunting the vicinity of the periodicals in the library was interviewed by the librarian Wednesday afternoon and it is to be hoped he will camp out somewhere else hereafter. He has been frequenting the library the past few weeks putting in his time smiling at the girls. His bright black eyes and his rather alarming smile created a panic among them at first sight. His generous appearance was that of a sunburned youth who had just blown in from the backwoods and tere.

NEBRASKA WINS HER FIRST.

The Varsity team lined up against Lincoln Swifts last Saturday afternoon and considering the cold weather the exhibition was a very fair sample of the national game. The Swift team was for two years the strongest team in the state, and no one thought they would have any trouble in defeating the Nebraska boys.

The University team is composed largely of new material this year and no one had any idea of their base ball ability, since, on account of the bad weather, they have only been able to practice out doors three times. Admission to the game was free and a large crowd of base ball cranks was present to pass judgment on the playing of the team and to estimate the class of base ball which Lincoln will have this spring.

There were many new faces on the University team, some of whom while new on the diamond have been seen before in other branches of sport. Williams who played half-back on the football team, filled the position behind the bat. He catches snappy, throws well and his experience as a catcher for the past four years will greatly help the new pitchers.

Halstead opened the game in the box and pitched six innings. He ought to make a first-class pitcher although he needs to have better control of the ball. Catherwood pitched the last three innings and considering that it was his first appearance as a pitcher, he did fairly well. He will soon be a valuable man when he gains a little more confidence in himself and works off the newness of the game.

Rhodes played a game on first base that would do credit to any team. He seems to be a natural born ball player and when he develops a little more batting ability and works up some enthusiasm he will prove a valuable addition to the team.

Reeder, who has played on the team for the last two years, covered second base and showed that he had ability as an infielder as well as an outfielder. His batting was noticeably better than that of last year.

Dutch Wells played shortstop and his work needs no further comment. He was always a favorite among the fans last year, as he will be this year. He plays with life and ginger that might well be copied by the whole team.

Cowgill was in his old position at third base and played a steady game. His playing promises to be much better this year than last.

The fields were covered by Rhea, Gordon and Bliss, and their work was good, especially that of Rhea who caught two line drives at critical times and prevented several scores.

As to the game itself Nebraska started well in the first inning with four scores and the Swifts, despite their name, were not speedy enough to head her off. Nebraska made three more scores in the third and two in the fourth inning. After that the Swifts took a brace and did not allow their opponents to score. The best the Swifts could do in the batting line was to roll up six against Nebraska's nine scores.

Score by innings:
Nebraska.....4 0 3 2 0 0 0 0 0—9
Swifts.....2 0 0 1 0 2 1 0—6

CO. F WINS THE CONTEST.

At 2 o'clock last Saturday on the University campus before quite a large number of spectators, occurred the first athletic contest between companies E and F of the First and Second battalions respectively. The idea of such a contest had been first suggested by the Commandant of Cadets early in the semester, and it was at once enthusiastically received by the members of the two companies. Captains Noyes and Roddy set to work to see the affair a success. The committee appointed from the two companies, of which Lieut. Wilkinson was made chairman, was busy several weeks in arranging the different events and making other necessary preparations.

The result of the combined efforts of the committee and the members of the companies was a contest of seven different events, for which prizes were given by the merchants of the city. Neatly printed programmes were provided, giving a list of the entries and the prizes offered.

Company F won five of the seven events. The following is the list of the events with the winners:
Relay race, won by Company E.
Accoutrement race, won by Weeks, Company F.
Three legged race, won by Collett and Reed, Company F.
Egg and spoon race, won by Hopewell, Company E.
Bucket race, won by Strook, Company F.
Sack race, won by Crawford, Company F.
Tag-o-war, won by Company F.

When the contest was over the two companies adjourned to the armory, where the commandant treated them to ice cream and cake. After talks by the commandant and Captains Noyes and Roddy, the members of both companies dispersed, well satisfied with the success of the contest.

YALE'S CHILDISH SPORTS.

Of the many customs held in reverence by Yale undergraduates none is more popular at this season of the year than that of spinning tops. Every fine afternoon during the last week in February and the first two in March, the upper classmen can be seen spinning tops on the college campus or on the corner in front of Osborn hall, the side of the old fence. The students do not appear in public as top spinners until they have perfected the trick. They practice in the dormitory hallways, in the campus room, in their own room, and in other out of the way places on the university grounds until they are able to make the top spin every time they throw it. It is no unusual sight to see from 25 to 50 students, big, strapping fellows, many of them seniors, in front of Osborn hall with their tops and strings for an hour or two at a time. They draw a circle, place a top or two that they peg away at with the greatest hilarity.

At this season of the year also another craze among the students is rolling hoops. The fun of hoop rolling general last only during the first two weeks in March, and scores of students can be seen pleasant afternoons tearing through the campus, chasing their hoops like street urchins.

Another diversion in which some of the Yale students indulge is in playing marbles. The sedate old professors, who in their early days had as much fun with their hoops and marbles and tops as do the youthful generation now under their guardianship, watch the boys during these afternoons and thoroughly enjoy the spectacle.

A few of the more venturesome Yale boys two or three years ago undertook to introduce kite flying as an added amusement for March. It was a great sport for those who engaged in it, and it was thought that it would soon be come popular with the Yale boys, but somehow or other this sort of amusement failed to become popular and the flying of kites has been dropped from the list of traditional horse plays that can be charged to Yale men.
