CHANCELLOR McLAIN'S ADDRESS.

It appears therefore in conclusion that there is no obstacle to the establishment by the United States of such forms of government in annexed territory as may best promote law and order and may preserve to subjects in those territories their full measure of civil rights and religious liberty, or to the establishment of such territories of local governments administered largely by the people of the respective districts so far as they may show themselves qualified for such participation. And the very fact that the admission of such districts or portions thereof as states would be fraught with very considerable danger, would, as I believe, tend to a long and indefinite period of time to prevent the addition to the union of states torn from annexed territory not substantially occupied by English speaking people, who so far as the world's history throws any light on the question, are the only people qualified to exercise that large independent jurisdiction with reference to local affairs which by the constitution of the United States is given by the people of the states of the union.

Strongly as I have sympathized with those who are anxious not to depart from the traditions of our fathers; fully convinced as I am that the first duty of the citizens of the United States is to support and perfect the government under which they live and to demonstrate to the world that excellence of republican institutions by furnishing on this continent a practical example of this successful administration, nevertheless I feel that we must meet the conditions which confront us and that we should meet them with confidence that our people will not be false to their trust and that our institutions will in this crucial test be found to possess a strength and stability which no casualties can undermine. Let us not with faint hearts and retrospective minds, but with a courage and enthusiasm which will achieve success if success is obtainable, look forward to the solution of the problems which are upon us.

ATHLETIC BOARD MEETINGS.

The Athletic Board has been extremely busy during the past week. On Monday night they met and elected the following managers of the various branches of athletics:

- Base ball manager, Frank Rain.
- Assistant manager, R. W. Bliss.
- Basket ball manager, R. E. Benedict.
- Assistant manager, Mr. Lehmer.
- Tennis assistant manager, Mr. Christie.
- Track athletics assistant manager, Mr. Brew.

No decision was reached as to who should be manager of Track Athletics.

On Thursday evening the board again met and considered the charges hanging over the manager, Mr. A. A. Bischoff, and Captain W. C. Melford, of the football team. The following resolutions were adopted, which need no further explanation:

Whereas, At the meeting of the athletic board of the university of Nebraska held October 17, 1898, the manager of the foot ball team submitted a proposition for a game with the Denver athletic club; and

Whereas, He was notified at that time of the existence of rule 4 "college foot ball teams shall play only with teams representing educational institutions" and that consequently a game with the Denver athletic club could not be changed; and

Whereas, In spite of this the manager admits knowing prior to the time of leaving Lincoln that two games would not be played with Colorado university as called for by the contract, but that one would be played at Denver, presumably with the Denver athletic club; and

Whereas, Such a game was arranged for and played with the Denver athletic club at Denver, contrary to the general and specific instructions of this board; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we severally censure the foot ball manager, Mr. A. A. Bischoff, for dishonorable conduct in wilfully violating the rules and instructions of this board.

Whereas, In express violation of the order of the athletic board suspending Mr. Ray Elliott from the foot ball team the captain included him as a member of the team taken on the western trip; and

Whereas, The captain acknowledges playing Mr. Elliott in both games on this trip, knowing that the board had suspended him, therefore be it

Resolved, That the athletic board finds the captain, Mr. W. C. Melford, guilty of violating its rules and censures him for his open disregard of its authority.

FOOT BALL TEAM ELECTS CAPTAIN.

The foot ball team, upon call of Captain Melford, met last Thursday and elected Charlie Williams captain of the team for 1899. The choice meets with general approval, as Williams deserves the position, as he has always been a hard, clean player, and is popular with athletics in the University. A good captain means a good team.
