 A great many visitors have been at the university the past week, many of them being delegates who are here attending the A. O. U. W. convention.

The commissioned and non-commissioned officers of "Co. A" entertained informally for their company at the Phi Delta house last Wednesday night.
 The May luncheon given in the armory last Wednesday noon was a grand success, about thirty-five dollars being turned into the Y. W. C. A. treasury.

There will be company spell down in the armory next Wednesday evening to choose four men from each company to compete for the final individual competitive drill.

The English department has notified the debaters that all who expect credit for work done must report to Schlyer Miller at once. Seventy hours of work is required for one-fifth course credit.

Quite a delegation escorted the men who debated with Kansas to the train last Thursday. We may well feel proud of our men for they received the unanimous decision of all the judges on the debate.

Mrs. E. H. Barbour has issued invitations to the active members of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Delta Delta Delta for an "At home" to be given Thursday, May 18, at four o'clock.

The boys can fool most of the pros, but they can't get the better of "Jack" best. Last Saturday evening before the girls' gymnasium exhibit Jack discovered and marched out three young men who had hid themselves in the new pipe organ.

Prof. G. E. Barber of the Latin department has received an interesting memento of the war in the Philippine islands from an old student, L. J. Abbott, Jr., now with the First Nebraska infantry. It consists of two volumes in Latin entitled "Compendium Moralis Universalis, 1877, and found by Mr. Abbott in an old captured church near Manila.

The following delegates and contestants to the interstate high school contest were entertained at the Phi Psi chapter house during their visit in Lincoln: Arthur Jaynes, Preston Davidson, Ralph Christie, Herman and Chas. Lehmer, Earl Painter, and father, Chas. Prichard, Walter Roberts, Roy Morse, Phil Reed, Harry Esterbrook, of Omaha, Louie Evans, of Beatrice, Ed. Harlan and Allen Sedgwick of York.

J. E. BOYLE.

J. E. Boyle, recently elected corresponding secretary, needs no introduction to the students of the University of Nebraska. Mr. Boyle's work in the library has given him a wide acquaintance among all classes of students. He is not a stranger in association circles; last year he was chairman of the missionary committee. He attended the missionary convention one year ago at Cleveland and was also at Geneva the past summer. He is a student volunteer and hopes some time to go as a foreign missionary. He has made association problems a study and is well qualified to assist in any line. Mr. Boyle is paying his own way through school. He is one of the men who may be said to be a successful book agent, which speaks well for his persuasive qualities, and its officers are located in New York.
 AN are confident that under his direction the correspondence of the association will be well cared for.

sue. Corey and Axling were simple privates in the ranks, but strong, earnest men. Their wide acquaintance with the students now in college necessitates only the mere mention of their names. Both are now students for the ministry at Rochester, Thatcher, the president of one year ago, is known to all of us. His successful work as an executive officer is well marked in the condition of the association today. Roscoe was a friend to everybody and well respected by the student body. He is at present teaching in the Beatrice high school.

Thus, briefly told, and very briefly, too, for the line of names could be extended much further—do we recall a few of the leaders in Christian work in the association. These men have been of those who came to college, Christian men, it is true, but who went away with lives devoted and given up to the services of their Lord. Were one to ask what brought about the great change and purposes of their lives, Lake Geneva no doubt would answer a great deal, but more and with deeper earnestness would be the answer, the life of training and practical work as they found it in the Young Men's Christian association.
