

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA.

CHARLES E. BESSEY, PH. D., ACTING CHANCELLOR.

[Terms begin Sept. 17, 1890, Jan. 2, and Mar. 30, 1891.]

The University is the head of the public educational system of the State. It aims to continue and complete the work begun in the public schools, and secure to all an opportunity of liberal culture in literature and science, and in such technical and professional courses as shall from time to time be added. These advantages are offered to all free of charge for tuition, without regard to sex or race, or place of residence, on the sole condition of possessing the intellectual and moral qualifications requisite for admission to such an institution.

THE LATIN SCHOOL.

JAMES T. LEES, PH. D., PRINCIPAL.

In this school preparation is afforded for all the Undergraduate Courses in the COLLEGE OF LITERATURE, SCIENCE AND THE ARTS, and also for those in the UNIVERSITY.

The preparatory studies run through two years. Applicants for admission to the First Year will be examined on the following subjects: English Grammar Arithmetic, Geography, and History of the United States. Graduates of high schools accredited for the Minor Course (now including Aurora, Columbus, Fairmont, Friend, Gibbon, Harvard, Hebron, McCook, North Loup, Ord, Red Cloud, Sutton, Tecumseh, Holdrege and Willer) are admitted to the Second Year class on presentation of diplomas.

THE COLLEGES.

THE UNIVERSITY consists of two colleges, or undergraduate departments. Graduates of the Latin school, or of the high schools accredited for the major course (including now Alma, Ashland, Auburn, Beatrice, Edgar, Fremont, Grand Island, Kearney, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth and Ulysses) are admitted into the Freshman class of either college on presentation of diplomas.

Students in both colleges attend classes in common, as far as possible, and have every advantage afforded by contact with those studying in other departments and the instruction of trained and experienced University professors.

For catalogues or fuller information apply to the steward, J. S. DALES, Lincoln, Neb.

THE COLLEGE OF LITERATURE, SCIENCE, AND THE ARTS.

CHARLES E. BESSEY, PH. D., DEAN.

THE CLASSICAL COURSE, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, affords a training in the Ancient Languages and Literatures.

THE LITERARY COURSE, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Letters, offers a training in History, Literature and the Modern Languages.

THE INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE.

J. STERLING KINGSLEY, D. SC., DEAN.

The course in GENERAL SCIENCE, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, offers a liberal education, in which the Modern Sciences and the Modern Languages are given most prominence. The ELECTIVE COURSES IN SCIENCES, leading to the same degree, afford a training in special lines leading to Agricultural, Electrical or Scientific work.

The course in CIVIL ENGINEERING offers such training as will fit a young man for the practice of Civil Engineering.

For those who can spend but a year or two in study, an Elementary course in Agriculture has been arranged.

Students in the Industrial College may obtain remunerative employment at rates ranging from 15 to 25 cents per hour, depending upon the quality of work.

SCHOOL OF THE FINE ARTS.

MISS MOORE AND MRS. MENZENDORF.

Instruction given in drawing and painting from the flat, casts, still life, nature, and models in the progressive order. Pupils are required to provide easels and material; an ample selection of casts and studies is furnished in the studio. The charge for daily lessons during 12 weeks is $25.00, payable in advance. Free instruction is given to classes in Art History, Plastic Anatomy and Perspective.

The Course in Music includes instruction on the Piano Forte, Organ and Violin, Voice-training and Musical Theory. Fees for individual or class instruction are moderate.