

Secretary Furnas announces the usual "corn show" in the armory beginning January 19. It will again be under the care of Troyer.

Where, oh where, is the promised wash bowl promised the young men in University hall? Echo and the steward say "Delayed freights."

Irving J. Manatt, remembered by the upper classmen as our former chancellor, is the author of "Xenophon's Hellenica" now in the library.

The societies are considering the advisability of having an inter-society debate during the winter term. The suggestion came from the chancellor.

Mr. Brugger's college friends learned with regret that his sister did not survive the attack of scarlet fever with which she suffered nearly three weeks.

Rev. C. S. Harrison, of Franklin academy, Franklin county, Nebraska, was a caller at the university last week and conducted chapel exercises.

A. F. Skiles, the man that raised the champion liar of Cass county, came down the 24th to see that his son was maintaining his local reputation.

Messrs. Marshall, Forsyth and Tucker visited Cotner university Sunday, October 24, as delegates from the university to assist in organizing a Y. M. C. A.

In many institutions the members of each class take seats together in a certain part of the room during chapel service. Why not in the University of Nebraska?

Mr. S. L. Mains of Doane was at the university, October 19, to make arrangements about foot ball. LATER.—He is expected up today to attend the funeral.

Mr. Sheldon has distinguished himself and beaten all known records by taking eight girls to society. A hack was used to gather and to distribute the fair ones.

Miss Gregg entertained her brother Charles, a former student of the university, last Wednesday. He was accompanied by a friend, Fred Wolsey, of Wyoming.

As big and as insurmountable as the new fence looks, it will not stop the boys when they are after a foot ball. This fact was fully demonstrated in the senior-junior game.

Since the chancellor's gentle reminder, Sergeant Gund is of the opinion that the campus and not the corridor is the proper place for illustrating the new arm movements.

The state convention of the Y. M. C. A. meets in Lincoln November 5 to 8. Students from Nebraska colleges will be present. This will be a good opportunity to show them around.

Our exchange editor spent several days last week "taking in" the Sioux City corn palace and visiting his parents and old friends at Dakota City. He reports an enjoyable time.

The cadet band made their initial appearance on the street with the new instruments, the 22d ult. They spent nearly the entire day playing for the I. O. O. F. organization.

Miss Ruliffson accepted a temporary position as instructor in the "T" street school. She will be retained in the school as assistant principal. She will continue two studies in the university.

The new green house, secured by the efforts of Professor Taylor, will be a great addition to the campus. The collection of plants is large and well chosen. Dr. Jensen is happy, and the students in the botanical department are asking if this is to cut off all that blessed wandering in pairs "after specimens."

What everybody would like to know is, what was the inducement that influenced Paul Pizey to so suddenly take his departure for Sioux City. Something beside the corn palace, surely.

The new door in the reading room is certainly to be appreciated. No more will the wandering student be obliged to stand holding the door open, or stoop to gaze through the four inch slot in the door.

A big bass voice is a good thing to have on certain occasions, but Cicero Johnson says it is very embarrassing to have his girl's ma fire him from the front gate after society, and all because he couldn't talk in a whisper.

The law college invites all students interested to visit the college and listen to the lectures. It is said that all the reserved seats for the lectures on "Domestic Relations" are taken and the sign is up "standing room only."

The chancellor's suggestion that the societies hold business sessions before the program instead of after it and that the sessions begin at 7:30 P. M. and close at 10 P. M. did not meet with the approval of a majority of students.

A large ventilating fan has been put in the attic of the chemical laboratory, which will aid greatly in ventilating the different rooms. It is run by an electric dynamo in the basement and has direct connection with the flues from the different rooms.

The stone walks are nearly done, and work has commenced on the brick driveway. The grading and sodding of the campus are progressing rapidly and altogether it looks as though the campus will be in quite a respectable condition before snow flies.

The freshmen were in mourning for a Day or so as there was a report out that one of their girls had eloped and gone to Denver. That reminds us that Barkley spent an hour or so at the different depots one Sunday eve looking for the girl that never came.

The first Sunday afternoon of each month a missionary meeting will be held by the Christian associations of the young men and young women. On the third Sunday afternoon of each month some prominent speaker will give an address to the associations.

It seems quite possible that before this issue reaches the readers, the library will be open evenings. If this comes about there will be cause for rejoicing on the part of every hard student in the university. "This is the way we long have sought, and mourned because we found it not."

Through the courtesy of Mr. F. G. Daniels, the Lincoln representative of the Short electric railway, a merry crowd of university students were treated to a ride in a special electric car to Union college on the evening of the 17th. All report a big time and hereafter will always have a good word to say for Dan.

Messrs. Smith and Turner, of the Wesleyan Y. M. C. A., visited the meeting of the university association, Sunday, October 18. The object of the visit was to arrange a series of visitations between the college associations in Lincoln, and to arrange to organize an association at Cotner university. The university association was glad to co-operate in both plans.

The little frame building that has, in years past, served as a pathological laboratory, rabbit incubator, back stop for aspiring base ball batteries, sleeping apartments and finally, as a stable, is no more. A small part has been moved immediately to the south of the boiler house and will be used as a carpenter shop. The remainder has been removed from the eyes of the students forever.
