

Call at Francis Brothers' chop house. Open day and night. 1324 O street.

Mr Paul Pizey is again in school. He has just recovered from a severe attack of the measles.

At 114 So. 11th Street is Don's Cafe. Call am. get the inner man refreshed. Don Cameron, proprietor.

Lost, strayed, or stolen, the green-house cat. Ten dollars reward will be paid to the finder of said property.

Professor Fossler delivered two lectures at Red Cloud on the evenings of February 26 and 27. He illustrated them with photographs.

Mr. Colson left for Chicago on the 24th. We understand that Mr. Colson does not intend to pursue his studies in the university any further.

The history department has lately received some half dozen set of French memoirs and letters, a very valuable addition to the department.

All work in preparation for the Junior annual must be handed in without delay, as it is necessary to make everything ready for the printers.

Trigonometry will be completed about March 1. The remainder of the term will be devoted to lectures on higher algebra, delivered by Professor Hitchcock.

On the whole the young ladies are well pleased with their new cloak room. However, some think they should have a step ladder to enable them to get upon their sofa.

On Friday, February 26, Dr. Little made a very interesting talk to Mr. Hodgman's division of the freshman class on notable American mathematicians and mathematical schools.

All signs point to a boom for the teaching profession in the near future. This university extension movement will create a great demand for educated young men to act as public lecturers and teachers.

Paul L. Hibbard, who for some months past has been engaged in the Belair sugar house, Louisiana, has returned to complete his collegiate course. Mr. Hibbard enters the sugar school of the university.

A few weeks ago one of the seniors, Mr. Hyde, was elected to a position in the high school faculty. Now it is reported there soon will be a vacancy in the mathematical department. Why cannot the university fill this vacancy also?

The newest organization in the university is the howling glee club. We understand that this club will spread the fame of the university next summer by making a tour of the state. It is at present under the management of Chief Howler Skiles.

The title of professor of botany and horticulture, which Dr. Bessey has borne so long, has been changed to professor of botany. A chair of horticulture has been established and Professor Taylor has been assigned to the same with the title of adjunct professor.

The class of '96, has adopted one of the most unique yells in school. It has been decided to discard the yell which has heretofore been their war cry, and will hereafter terrorize their enemies with: "Rah! Rah! Rah! Nonaginta Sex! Noos, Vives, Virtus, En'nakonta Hex!

The board of regents has authorized proper bonds to be made to cover a large addition to the equipment of the armory, consisting of additional stands of arms, fifty cavalry sabers for saber drill, and other necessary equipments. This will give every member in the battalion some instruction in every form of military science.

Professor Caldwell recently received a letter from ex-Chancellor Fairfield, who is now the United States consul to Lyons, France. The ex chancellor sent as a New Year's card, a small United States flag. He is quite profuse in his wishes for the success of Chancellor Canfield.

The state oratorical contest of Colorado will take place March 9. Representatives from six colleges will compete. Professor Sherman had the honor of being invited to act as one of the judges on thought and composition. Owing to lack of time he was compelled to decline.

The departmental library of the Latin school has recently received some additions: Boise's four books of Xenophon's Anabasis, Whitney's German grammar, and fifteen copies of Teubner's text of Caesar for examinations, making seventy-five copies now available for that purpose.

A cable announces the arrival of Professor H. H. Nicholson at Southampton. The passage was a rough and stormy one. The professor continues his ocean journey to Bremen; thence he goes to Braunschweig, to become a student in one of the most celebrated sugar schools on the continent.

A brother of Frank Tucker has just entered the university for special work in mathematics. Mr. Tucker has for some years been a practical surveyor on the Northern Pacific R. R. and will supplement his practical knowledge by the theory while resting at his home, after a severe attack of pneumonia.

The following promotions were made in the cadet battalion on January 17. To be sergeants: Cadet corporals, R. H. Johnson, Thayer, Gerrard, R. E. Johnson, and Dixon, and Private W. H. Pillsbury. To be Corporals: Cadet privates, Clements, Fisher, Durrell, Babcock, Cochran, Chapman, and Fritts.

On the evening of Tuesday, March 8, Professor Wightman will give in the chapel a lecture on Paris. In illustration of the lecture some thirty carefully selected stereoscopic views will be shown, which, it is hoped, will give a vivid picture and correct impression of the beauties of the French capital.

About sixty young people attended the Palladian reception at the home of Mr. Gene Brown on the evening of February 25. Dancing, cards, and games were indulged in, light refreshments were served, and every one reports a glorious time and votes that Mr. Brown and his assistants are excellent entertainers.

The outside public seem to think that a man who can keep order in the university can surely keep order in a Sabbath school; for three professors—Taylor, Woods, and Hodgman—are superintendents respectively of the First Congregational, Vine Congregational, and First Presbyterian schools of this city.

Through the kindness of Mr Stout, Professor Hodgman's division of the freshmen class was given an opportunity to distinguish itself in practical surveying. Several observations were made as to the height of the main building and the computations made from these by the students were very creditable to them.

Professor Fling's room has been recently decorated with several very fine pictures. Among them are steel engravings of the Magna Charta, Prince Bismark, General Von Molke, French cavalymen and infantrymen as they appeared in the war of 1771, and the crown Prince Frederick at the battle of Woerth. These add very much to the beauty of the room, and no doubt the students will have better lessons than before with these pictures to inspire them.