SECOND GAME.

The team left Kansas City for Lawrence Saturday evening. Rather, six of them did. The other six looked at playthings in the show windows too long and missed the train, but arrived Sunday morning. Sunday was spent in attending divine service and resting, principally the latter. Monday the boys were shown through the university buildings and over the town by the college boys, who are a fine set of fellows. Our club indulged in two hours' practice and were in good shape for the game. At 3 o'clock the clubs took their places on the field with about 500 spectators in the amphitheater, and play commenced. The game in detail as given by the scorer is as follows:

The first ball pitched was knocked on the ground to Pace who fielded it to Smith. Smith was run into by the runner and dropped the ball. The second batter knocked the ball to right field for one base and the next batter went out to Stroman by an easy fly. The ball was again knocked sailing out to right field, scoring one run and advancing another man to third, while the batter was safe at first and stole second. Barnes fanned the next man. The ball was hit over Smith's head to right field and two more runs for Kansas university was the result. A moment later the fourth score was made as the result of a two bagger to right field. Barnes broke the monotony of base hits by fanning the next batter. This inning had given Kansas university four runs of which three were earned. For Nebraska, Stroman got his base on balls. Holmes made first on a grounder forcing Stroman out at second. Holmes stole second, but was caught off the base a moment later. Hadley got first on balls and Barnes flew out to center field. In the second inning Kansas university was retired by a grounder to Smith, a fly to Chandler in left field and one of Heald's phenomenal running fly catches. Dowling got first base on balls, Pace fanned, Dowling stole second and third and Smith, being hit, was given first base. Smith was forced out at second by Heald's grounder and Heald was retired in attempting to steal second. In the third inning Kansas university made a single and the runner stole second. Barnes now warmed up and fanned the next three men. For Nebraska Chandler fanned and Stroman and Holmes went out on easy grounders. Fourth inning—First man for Kansas university fanned. Barnes gave the next man a base on balls and catching an easy fly from the next batter stopped on first, making a double play. Nebraska did nothing in their half. Fifth inning—Kansas university was retired by a fan-out, a grounder to first and a throw to second by Holmes when a runner attempted to steal that base. Our boys now used the stick with better results. Heald got a base on balls and Chandler knocked a grounder to third and beat it out to first. Stroman sacrificed advancing Heald and Chandler, who came in a moment later on a clean two-bagger by Holmes. Hadley relieved the anxiety of Kansas university by fanning. Sixth inning—The Kansas boys could not reach first. Barnes reached first on an error and stole second. Dowling got first in the same manner as did Barnes. Pace made a well placed sacrifice scoring Barnes and advancing Dowling to third. Smith hit a grounder to the third baseman who tried to cut Dowling off at the home plate but failed, and Smith reached first. Heald went out on a grounder. Chandler made a hit but Stroman fanned, retiring the side. In the seventh and eighth neither side was able to score. Nor were our boys in their half of the ninth. But things were now getting desperate, and 500 voices screamed and screeched the K. S. U. yell—"Rock chalk, Jay Hawk, Kansas university." This may explain, to some extent the cause of the errors in the ninth inning which allowed the winning score to be made, which was done in this manner: Stroman fumbled a grounder. The next man drove the ball to left field. Chandler threw the ball to Heald who threw wild to first. The runner attempted to score but Smith got the ball in time to throw him out. With a man on third the ball was knocked to Smith who fell down in attempting to field it, allowing the winning run to be made.

Barnes led both teams in batting.—Kansas City Journal.

The Nebraskans created a sensation by batting out two runs and taking the lead.—Kansas City Journal.

Little Pace, the shortstop of the Nebraska team, put up a very sharp practice game, but had no opportunity to distinguish himself in the real contest.—Kansas City Times.

Both the Nebraska and Baker teams are composed of athletic looking men, the Nebraskans being the stockier of the two.—Kansas City Times.

"Little boy Barnes" put some extra whiskers on the ball.—Lawrence Journal.

The Nebraska team is composed of a gentlemanly set of college boys, and Lawrence people are more than pleased with them as ball players and representatives of the Nebraska State university.—Lawrence Index.

Nebraska's pitcher received applause several times after he had got warmed up.—Lawrence Journal.

Barnes' double play and Heald's fly catch were the two features of the game.—Lawrence Journal.

The Nebraska boys are gentlemen in every respect and put up a gentleman's game of ball.—Lawrence Journal.

"Ball playing did not win the game.

"Had the Kansas boys kept still during the last half of the ninth inning the game would have gone to Nebraska.

"They made so much noise that the visitors could not hear their captain's voice, and errors resulted that would not have occurred otherwise.

"It was not exactly giving, but it was a means of winning that was hardly fair to the Nebraska boys. The latter had
