

monthly, are probably out of date. We advise it to play hedgehog and return into its hole.

The Delphic, Drake university, Des Moines, Ia., has a sketch on the life and poetry of Whittier. It is well written. We would like to clip it but such not being our privilege, we invite all to visit our sanctum and read the tribute to one of our greatest poets.

This is our last issue, hence we would like to say a parting word. There are several things very discouraging about the exchange department. The first is the small type which we have had to put up with. It is bad enough to write articles when they are read. But where, O where is the glory or honor in writing anything and seeing it set in type which is literally "out of sight," and knowing that no one ever reads it. True the Index was wont to read our scribs, but even the patience and eyes of his Irish highness have played out and he too leaves our column in silent obscurity. We have worked hard to get the paper on a new basis, but, alas, we are just where we were a year ago to-day. Ye future editor will, we hope, sail in with the vim and force of a new recruit. But he will, we venture to say, be tired of his job before the year is up. Tired, did we say? Well, no, not that. But he will not care much what he writes. He will like to see the exchanges come in; to read the bright remarks of some and the summer poetry of others. He will clip the witticisms for his scrap-book and cull the pictures as keepsakes; and so keep up his interest. So we have done. We thank all our exchanges for exchanging with us and brightening our way with their lustrous works. Farewell.

YE EXCHANGE EDITOR.

ALUMNI AND FORMER STUDENTS.

- '88—A. B. Stephens is at Fairbury.
- '91—Harry B. Hicks is clerk of the probate court in Lincoln.
- '87-'89—Born, to Professor and Mrs. Elton Fulmer, a boy baby.
- '92—Jake White is a student of the Ann Arbor medical college.
- '87—A. H. Bigelow is principal of the Aurora schools at $1,000 a year.
- Miss Jessie Lowe, once of '89, is a teacher this year at Colorado Springs.
- John H. Marble, formerly of '92, is working on the Deadwood Independent.
- '87—W. C. Perrin, of Roca, became the father of another son in August.
- '90—C. W. Bigelow and wife have commenced a new school year at Madison.
- '89—E. G. Eagleson is making maps for towns in Oregon, and doing well financially.
- '80-'83—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stratton, of Omaha, welcomed a little daughter July 21.
- '91—J. B. Fogarty left Hot Springs, S. D., in August, and went to Omaha to read law.
- '89—Edna D. Bullock is attending the school of library economy at Albany, New York.
- '85—Miss Mary L. Jones has assumed her duties as librarian of the University of Nebraska.
- '90—H. C. Peterson put in a profitable summer in the teachers' institutes, and has taken his position as assistant professor of literature in the University of Nebraska.

'90—A. J. McClatchie is professor of biology in the Throop University at Pasadena, Cal.

'77—Allen B. Field, of Lincoln, is the republican candidate for congress in the First district.

Randolph McNitt, once of '93, is republican candidate for county attorney of Webster county.

Allen Beecher, once of '90, is rector of the Episcopal missions at several towns west of Kearney.

'91—A. A. Furot reports everything prospering with him at Holdrege, where he is assistant principal.

'88—Dr. Dean T. Smith, formerly located in Alabama, is now practising medicine in Jackson, Mich.

'90—Steve Langworthy spent two months of the summer in Europe, and is again practicing law in Lincoln.

'80—D. H. Mercer, of Omaha, has been nominated by the republicans of the Second district for congress.

'92—Walter Bowers Pillsbury is instructor in mathematics and English in the new Grand Island Baptist college.

'91—Miss Fannie A. Baker is instructor in German, French and the sciences in the Grand Island Baptist college.

'88—Jay A. Barrett has published an admirable little book called "Nebraska," which is being adopted as a school text book.

Dr. T. J. Case and wife, of Boomfield, Neb., visited the university on the 23rd. Dr. Case attended the university in 1886 and 1887.

'88—W. H. Wagner and Miss Cordie Sherer were married August 10, and are now at home at Beatrice, where Mr. Wagner is principal of a ward school.

'90—Frank F. Almy was married September 14 to Miss Eva McReynolds, of Ashland. He has gone to John Hopkins University to complete his graduate course.

'89—Charles M. French is principal of the Gretna schools. He was married in May to Miss Anna Dorste, but the public was not aware of the fact until August.

'90—H. Duncanson has been appointed to a professorship at Peru Normal school. He will also have charge of the military department, consisting of a batallion of three companies.

'84—J. H. Hoimes was married June 16 to Miss Rebe Webb, of Philadelphia, and is settled in Washington as teacher of sciences in the Friends' Select school, where he has already taught three years.

'92—Homer J. Edmiston has been appointed to an instructorship in Latin at Cornell. He will be with Professor Bennett, formerly of this institution. Mr. Edmiston has accepted an excellent position and will without doubt be a credit to himself and alma mater.

'89—David D. Forsyth and Miss Myra Clark were married September 20 at Sutton and spent their honeymoon in Lincoln. Mr. Forsyth continues as pastor of the First M. E. church at Gothenburg for the coming year.

'89—G. W. Gerwig has returned to his former home at Allegheny City, Pa., and was elected to the office of school commissioner over a man who had held the place eight years. He is also dramatic critic for a Pittsburg paper.

W. W. Robertson, formerly of '89, and Dan W. Bush, formerly of '91, are running papers in the same town, Chehalis, Wash. They are also in the heat of a political campaign. The force and directness of the language used in speaking of each other would delight Instructor Peterson. They would make fine examples for his analytics of literature.