

'93. Henry Lord and Chas. Stroman, both of Ulysses, heartily enjoyed their late visit to the University.

J. N. Dryden and wife, formerly members of the class of '84, were here during the Charter Day celebration.

'90. L. H. Stoughton has returned from Harvard University and is now preaching in the western part of the state.

'92. T. F. A. Williams, the "youngster" that attended the Alumni banquet, gave the most brilliant toast of the evening.

'91. Miss Rose Collins, who is having excellent success as teacher in the Fremont schools, was a visitor Charter Day.

Miss Cora Smith of the class of '94 who was forced to leave school for her health is now in California and is reported to be much better.

'85. E. J. Churchill, who is one of the leading lawyers of Cheyenne, Wyo., was here to greet friends whom he had not seen for years.

'90. Mr. L. H. Stoughton, recently of the Harvard ministerial school, stopped in Lincoln on his way to his pastorate in the northern part of the state.

'81. John H. Silvernail, assistant superintendent of the Nebraska Industrial School at Kearney, came down to meet old friends and to renew acquaintances.

'93. T. E. Wing has returned from Spearfish, South Dakota, where he has been employed for the last three months. He expects to remain in Lincoln for awhile.

Claire Metcalf, formerly of '95, but now of the University of Minnesota, was compelled to come home on account of sickness. He will remain for about two weeks and then will return to continue his studies.

'88. Mr. Jared Smith at present connected with Shaw's Botanical Gardens of St. Louis, was home to attend Charter Day exercises and cheer the hearts of his brother bot. sems'. He read a paper at the "convocation of the botanicals" February 17.

LOCAL.

Miss Boose was in Detroit last week.

Miss Katharine Weston spent Saturday and Sunday in Beatrice.

Miss Fifer was ill for three weeks with pneumonia, but has returned to school.

Miss Kate Wilder entertained the faculty dancing club at the Junior Promenade.

The members of the Palladian Society discussed the "Income tax" Friday evening.

H. G. Barber went to Ashland last week where he delivered a lecture on Entomology.

Miss Annie Treat went home for a short visit Saturday returning to school Monday.

Miss Paddock and MacDuvell entertained their friends at the Conservatory of Music.

Miss Martha Burks spent Sabbath at her home in Beatrice, returning to her University work Monday morning.

Some of our Charter Day decorations will remain in a few of the departments as mementoes of the occasion.

The class of '98 framed resolutions of regret at the death of Mr. Dayton, which they sent to the college and city press.

Miss Wheeler, Mr. Teele and Mr. Pollard went to Ashland Saturday evening to act as judges at a declamatory contest there.

Mr. R. P. Teele goes to Ashland Friday afternoon for the purpose of acting as a judge at a declamatory contest at that place.

The senior "Laws" are congratulating themselves over the fact that they will not have to read their Thesis in chapel this year.

Misses Boose and Loughridge; Messrs Tucker and Axling left last week for Detroit to attend the World's Volunteer Missionary Convention.

Miss Minnie Nichols, of Lake Geneva, Wis., is a guest of her cousin, Prof. F. W. Taylor. She is returning from an extended tour on the Pacific coast.